Panepinto Reinstated by Council

Members 'Reluctant' To Vote

Monessen City Council yesterday voted "reluctantly" to reinstate Philip Panepinto as a member of the police force.

The reinstatement action came following new evidence presented in Panepinto's behalf by three witnesses who did not appear at a hearing before City Council on June 12 which eventually resulted in Panepinto being discharged as a patrolman for violating two police regulations.

The action also came after City Solicitor Frank P. Ezerski Jr. told Council that "in view of this new evidence, we have no other choice but to reisstate Panepinto."

The reinstatement was not made without Panepinto being penalized, however. His paycheck losses total $511.29, which includes pay during the 30-day suspension and from Sept. 11, the date of the request for the rehearing, to yesterday.

Panepinto was discharged from the force on July 12 by a unanimous vote of Council following charges preferred by Mayor Hugo J. Parente. The latter charged Panepinto with failure to make hourly calls to the station and "sleeping on duty."

Presents Motion

At the previous hearing, Council voted the ouster after hearing testimony from six witnesses — five against and one for Panepinto. Yesterday Panepinto's attorney, Louis Manderino, produced three new witnesses, on whose testimony, along with Ezerski's recommendation, Council rescinded its previous decision.

On the advice of Ezerski, Councilman John Kotch Jr. presented the following motion calling for reinstatement:

"I move that the action of City Council on July 12 discharging Patrolman Panepinto be rescinded in view of the additional testimony presented before Council this morning (yesterday) . . . I move that Panepinto be suspended for a period of 30 days. . . to take effect on July 12. . . My reasons for this recommendation. .. are that the patrolman. . . by his own admission, violated rules of the department in failure to make hourly calls.

"I have been informed by our solicitor that Panepinto is entitled under the law to pay for the period beginning with the conclusion of the 30-day suspension imposed until the reopening of the case on Sept. 11, which would be Aug. 11 to Sept. 11.

He then made his "reluctant" motion. A "reluctant" second was by Councilman David Victoria. In the voting, Parente and Council David Canova also said they were voting yes "reluctantly."

Councilman John Molnar, after Council held a caucus prior to reinstating Panepinto, was so "reluctant" he refused to enter the Council chamber to vote.

After the hearing, Parente and the councilmen, including Molnar, said they were "reluctant" because they believed Panepinto "shouldn't receive a penny while he was off the force." Those who did vote said they did so only af-

Some Parts of State to Turn Clocks Back

HARRISBURG (UP)—Residents of at least 36 Pennsylvania communities will turn their clocks back one hour Sunday, but the vast majority of Pennsylvanias will continue on eastern daylight saving time for almost another month.

The state Chamber of Commerce said it received reports of only a few changes in plans since it compiled a survey throughout the state last spring.

The survey showed that at least 129 municipalities planned to observe "fast" time from April 28 to next Oct. 27, including the larger metropolitan areas of Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Scranton, Erie Erie, Reading, York, Allentown, Bethlehem, Chester, Butler, Duquesne, Lancaster, Harrisburg, Washington and Wilges-Barre.

(Monessen and other district communities will continue on "fast" time until Oct. 27.)

Cities which had indicated they would go back to standard time Sept. 29 included Altoona, Hazleton, Huntingdon, DuBois, New Castle, Sharon, Somerset, Sunbury, Tyrone and Williamsport.

David McDonald at Democratic Rally

David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers (AFL-CIO), will be principal speaker at the Westmoreland County Democratic Party's $25-plate dinner rally at Twin Coaches on Monday, Oct. 14.

McDonald notified Jay W. Kromer, county Democratic committee chairman and general campaign chairman, yesterday that he will be present at the affair.

It is reported that Gov. George M. Leader also has been invited.

Engineers Claim Brewery Site Only Place for Sewage Plant

An engineering firm has again advised Monessen City Council to locate the proposed sewage treatment plant on the old brewery site at the eastern end of the city.

The recommendation was made by Morris Knowles, Inc., Pittsburgh, in a report submitted during yesterday's council meeting.

The firm of consulting engineers previously suggested the brewery site after surveying other possible locations. They agreed to reevaluate the situation on request of council in view of new redevelopment plans for the eastern section of the city.

However yesterday's Morris Knowles report again maintained that the brewery site was the only feasible location.

City engineers had hoped another site could be secured to permit the extension of Donner Ave. on a more or less straight line through the brewery site to connect with the proposed new highway. This would provide the city with a more suitable entrance from the east.

The Morris Knowles report didn't think much of that idea.

"We are not impressed particularly with the project for extending Donner Ave. on a straight line across the property of the Monessen Foundry & Machine Co. and the portion of the brewery site," stated the report. "It would in substance nullify two valuable pieces of property reported to have a present day value of approximately $80,000 as well as the entire block on Schoonmaker Ave. east of Monongahela Ave.

"It (extending Donner Ave. on a straight line) would merely change the entrance to Donner Ave. by two blocks but would detract from the economic use of both the brewery site and the Monessen Foundry by making it more or less impossible to develop the industrial center on the latter property."

The Morris Knowles report said it favored a plan by the Redevelopment Authority which called for the location of a new highway along the right of way of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad, continuing by Monongahela St. to Schoonmaker Ave. This would not affect the brewery site.

The report pointed out that the sewage treatment system in Monessen is going to cost more than in most communities under even the most favorable conditions. This is due to the necessity of a large intercepting sewer, the Knowles report stated.

If the plant is constructed at the brewery site, the engineers estimated the cost at $2,600,000 and the annual expense at approximately $260,000 based upon the redemption of 40 year bonds.

The Knowles engineers said they considered four other sites: Webster, the incinerator location, the area partly adjoining to the Page Division, American Chain and Cable Co. Inc. property, and the area near the main line tracks of the P&LE railroad at the eastern end of the city.

The Webster and incinerator sites would require pumping stations, adding an estimated $600,-

Dr. Joseph Pallone

Large Crowd to Attend Dinner To Honor Pallone

About 500 persons, including public officials and educators, are expected to attend a testimonial dinner for Dr. Joseph Pallone, Monessen superintendent of schools, at Twin Coaches Sunday evening.

Arranged by the Monessen lodge, Order Sons of Italy in America, the affair will pay tribute to the man who assumed charge of the local school system last year. Dr. Pallone formerly was high school principal at Arnold.

Americo V. Cortesi, former deputy attorney general of Pennsylvania, of Philadelphia, will be the principal speaker. Ernest L. Biagi, grand secretary of the Sons of Italy for Pennsylvania, will also speak.

Henry Furio, principal of Monessen High School, will be the toastmaster.

Following the dinner and speaking program will be entertainment featuring singer Tony Bennett. Later there will be dancing to the music of the Frankie Barr orchestra.

Frank Bosco, of Monessen, a grand trustee of the Sons of Italy for Pennsylvania, is in charge of the committees arranging the program.

Faubus Plans To Give His Side Tonight

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP) — Nine Negro students returned to Central High School under paratroop guard today for their second day of integrated education.

All was calm at the school. Fewer than 50 white bystanders could be seen on the sidewalks outside of the three-block radius where bayonet-bearing soldiers of the 101st Airborne Division maintained a perimeter of federal military authority.

The largest single group consisted of nine teen-age boys standing on a corner.

There were no demonstrations, not even shouts, as the Negro children drove up to the main entrance of the school in an Army station wagon, escorted before and behind by jeeploads of troops.

Watch Silently

About 100 white students watched silently from the steps or the lawn as the Negroes walked into the building, preceded by two paratroopers and followed by three others. The white youths followed them inside, and the bell rang for classes to begin.

While the little convoy was en route to the school, Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus announced that he will address the nation tonight by radio and television to present his views on the use of federal armed force to integrate Central High.

Faubus said he will speak over the radio and television networks of the American Broadcasting Company at 10 p.m. e.d.t.

A man wearing an Air Force officer's uniform and carrying a .38 caliber revolver was arrested today by the Army. He had been mingling with spectators just outside Central High.

The man taken into custody was a white man, about 24 or 25 years old. He was turned over to Little Rock police for further investigation.

Had No Credentials

Lt. Col. Tom Matthews, an Army public information officer, said the man carried no credentials identifying him as an Air Force officer.

The man refused to give his name to reporters. Matthews had no immediate identification of him.

Troops found a rifle in the trunk of a 1957 Chrysler automobile which the man had driven to the school. The car bore a Texas license plate.

A tenth Negro student, Jane Hill, 15, who had been scheduled to attend Central High today, had to cancel her plans at the last minute because papers transferring her from all-Negro Horace Mann High were not completed in time. Her admission to Central was ordered by Federal Judge Ronald N. Davies along with the nine others who already are attending classes.

A United Press reporter trailed the convoy in a car equipped with a mobile radio-telephone.

He saw only small groups of spectators on street corners near the school. None shouted or made

Donora Having Legal Troubles In Annexation

Donora's effort to annex 217 acres of Carroll Twp. became involved in legal technicalities yesterday.

Attorneys challenged petitions from both sides during the second day of testimony in a hearing before Judge David H. Weiner of Washington County Court.

For the court to consider annexation, more than 50 per cent of the freeholders must be included on petitions submitted by the borough.

The Donora petitions contain 173 signatures out of an estimated 317 freeholders in the area to be annexed. However most of those names have been challenged.

The challenges have taken three forms. A number of persons are also included on "recanting petitions" asking the court to strike their names from the original petitions for annexations.

A number of actual signatures on the original petitions have been challenged.

And, thirdly, 11 persons took the witness chair yesterday to testify that they wished their names withdrawn.

As a counter move, Donora Solicitor A. J. DeMedio asked the court to dismiss the objecting petitions because, he said, they had failed to show they were aggrieved by the annexation within the meaning of the statute covering annexations.

Judge Weiner is making a record of the case which will be decided by the court en banc after all testimony has been taken.

Bauer Believes In System of Electing Judges

Westmoreland County Judge Edward G. Bauer, who is seeking a second 10-year term in common pleas court, last night told a meeting of Scottdale Democrats that he believes "our system of electing judges is wonderful."

Speaking before a large crowd at the Eagles Home, Bauer stated:

Certainly, I am responsible to you the voters, and I think it is good that I come before you at elections and listen to your problems and let you become better acquainted with me. If judges didn't have to campaign and be elected by the people, and in some instances be supported by political parties, they would become apathetic and the results would have an effect on you and our system of courts and government.

In his further remarks the judge indicated that he is proud to be a Democrat, stating:

"The Democrats have accomplished many good things in our county, state and nation. I am glad that the theme of the Democratic party has been the Brotherhood of Man and all of the candidates on this ticket, live by that theme."

Other remarks were made by L. Alexander Sculco, a candidate for judge; Earl S. Keim, district attorney; Leo Sukala, Prothonotary; Howard Bricker, clerk of courts; Stephen Yoney, coroner; and Dora M. Dunn, jury commissioner.

Spirited Discussion On Zoning Ordinance

A spirited question and answer period featured the second in a series of public hearings held last night by the Monessen Planning Commission to explain the proposed new zoning ordinance for the City. About 30 persons attended.

The question and answer period followed after William H. Pore, commission vice-chairman, explained in detail the intent and scope of the ordinance.

Using a series of maps, Pore pointed out that the City has been zoned into eight general areas. He then outlined the restrictions proposed for each.

He told those present that the commission is open to suggestions and criticism before preparing the final draft of the ordinance which will then be submitted to City Council for action. He said that all criticism must be submitted in writing.

Following the two-hour hearing in the Council chamber at City Hall, the commission decided informally to hold no further public hearings.

To Meet Oct. 8

It arranged to meet on Oct. 8 to put the zoning proposals in final form for submission to Council. The interval will give objectors a chance to communicate their views to the commission in writing.

Last night's questions were answered by members of the commission and two consultants from Community Planning Services, Inc., which helped prepare the ordinance.

Several present wanted to know if residences would have to be removed to conform with the proposed ordinance.

The commission was emphatic in stating that in general "persons living in existing homes will not be bothered."

Pore pointed out that one of the intents of the ordinance is to stop building homes in commercial and industrial zones.

Ed Forrest, one of the consultants, said that as a general rule, no existing residences will have to be removed even if they are located in commercial or industrial districts. He then went on to say that no enlargement or reconstruction will be permitted on these "nonconforming" residences. However, he said, in the event 50 per cent of the building is destroyed by fire, it could not be reconstructed.

Among the interested persons were owners of two grocery stores which are located in proposed residential zones.

Their owners, Peter Toussaint, of Toussaint Corners near Hilltop fire station, and Mrs. Betty Zendarsky, of Sheppental's grocery at Second and Elm streets, asked the commission how the new ordin-

Man Trapped by Smudged Print; Admits Slaying

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Charles Jones, 27, trapped by a smudged fingerprint, Wednesday confessed the fatal beating of a night watchman in a robbery which netted him $2.32, police said.

Jones was arrested by homicide detectives Tuesday night in the bludgeon slaying of George Wojnar, 65, of Pittsburgh, last Aug. 16, at the Black's Linen Supply Service.

The only clue police had was a partial fingerprint found at the murder scene.

Officer Joseph Wallace, after thumbing through thousands of prints on file with the Pittsburgh police bureau, finally turned up Jones' card Tuesday.

Wednesday, Jones broke under questioning and admitted he beat Wojnar to death with a chisel, according to police.

Patrolman Wallace, who was transferred to the identification division four years ago after being injured, was praised by Safety Director Louis Rosenberg for his "dogged persistence."

Wallace began the tedious job of searching through the thousands of fingerprints shortly after the murder and often worked after hours at home.

Rosenberg described it as "an example of the finest in detective work." He said if an investigation of Wallace's efforts upheld his present opinion, the patrolman would be cited by a merit board.

Pricedale Man Admits Thefts

GREENSBURG, Pa., (UP) — Thomas C. Brown, 24, of Pricedale, admitted to state police today he burglarized eight service stations and five residences since his release from a federal prison six weeks ago.

Brown was brought here to face charges of failing to pay a service station owner for gasoline. He was arrested in Lewistown when he tried the same ruse on another service station owner.

State police said Brown also confessed the theft of automobiles from a Greensburg man and the Mon Valley Motors Co. The burglaries netted Brown $1,366, police said.

Brown was scheduled to be returned to Lewistown for another hearing.

Senator Martin Is Sorry About Troops

U. S. Senator Edward Martin said at his Washington, Pa., home yesterday that he was "sorry the president had to send federal troops" to quell disturbances at Central High School in Little Rock, Ark.

"But of course," Sen Martin, said, "the President wouldn't send the troops if it weren't necessary."

Valley Teamsters Local Delegates Are 'Uncommitted'

Teamsters Local 872, representing Mon Valley truck drivers, will send an "uncommitted" delegate to the national Teamsters convention in Miami, Fla., next week.

William Kreuter, business agent for the valley union, will serve as delegate for Local 872. He has been instructed to cast the local's one vote as he sees fit.

Kreuter said he was unable to comment on reports that controversial James Hoffa is a sure-fire bet to succeed the resigning David Beck as president of the big union.

He also declined to comment on rumors that Hoffa will receive little or no support from Teamsters unions in the Pittsburgh area.

Pershing Urges Judge Halt Political Work

Attorney Avra N. Pershing Jr., Republican candidate for common pleas judge in Westmoreland County, today called on Judge John M. O'Connell to quit functioning as a member of a Democratic committee which Pershing said dispenses political patronage in the county.

Pershing and other Republican candidates have been criticizing the partisan activities of the county's judges, all of whom are Democrates. The Canons of Judicial Ethics of the American Bar Association frown on such activities except when the judges themselves are candidates.

In a letter addressed to Judge O'Connell yesterday, Pershing, who is one of the leading members of the county bar, said he understands O'Connell, Judge Edward G. Bauer, Chief County Detective Arthur B. Turner, District Attorney Alexander Sculco and Monessen Mayor Hugo Parente "and others" serve on the Democratic patronage committee.

This is a "direct violation" of Canon 28, Pershing wrote O'Connell.

The jurist also has been making political speeches for the Democratic candidates, Pershing said, and this, too, is a breach of proper judicial conduct.

"In the interest of taking the position of judge out of partisan politics...," the Pershing letter said. "it is respectfully suggested that proper corrective measures be taken immediately in repudiating the political endorsement of Democrat judicial candidates, refraining from making political speeches and withdrawal from membership on the committee on policy and political patronage while serving as judge."

O'Connell, along with Judges Richard D. Laird and Charles D. Copeland, had previously been criticized by the Republicans for endorsing Bauer, Sculco and Judge David Weiss, of Monessen, who are the Democratic judicial nominees.

None of the judges has yet made any response to the criticism.

Ike to Meet Southern Governors Tuesday

NEWPORT, R. I. (UP) — President Eisenhower today scheduled a meeting in Washington next Tuesday with a delegation of Southern governors to discuss "problems of school integration."

The President set the meeting for 2:30 p.m. e.d.t. at the White House Oct. 1 and widened the scope of the conference as originally requested by the governors.

The Southern Governors Conference originally asked that the President meet with a five-governor committee to discuss "withdrawal of federal troops from Arkansas at the earliest possible moment."

The President, however, wanted the conference to deal with the entire Southern school problem and not just Little Rock, where federal troops are protecting the right of nine Negro children to attend Central High School.

A copy of the governors conference resolution, passed Wednesday at Sea Island, Ga., was forwarded to the President by Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida, new chairman of the conference.

The White House meanwhile had no intention of including Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas in the Tuesday meeting. The governors had suggested a meeting with the President and Faubus, separately or together.

The White House attitude was that Faubus did not figure in the President's plans.

The President believed today that his handling of the Little Rock crisis had worked out thus far for the best.

The embattled Negro students were in classes at Little Rock's Central High School, mob action was at the disappearing point under the weight of Army paratroopers and inflamed tempers seemed to be subsiding.

After telephone conferences during the day on the Little Rock situation Wednesday with Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr., the President concluded at the end of the day that things in Little Rock were going comparatively well.

ter Ezerski "pointed out the law."

Panepinto sought each member of Council after the session to shake his hand and express his appreciation. Canova refused his hand, saying he didn't vote for the reinstatement, "because of you." Canova said he voted yes only because of Ezerski's recommendation.

Panepinto said he was "very pleased and glad" over the reinstatement.

Panepinto Pleased

"I want to get back to work. I have a wife and child to support," the 10-year veteran of the force said.

Manderino, too, said the decision was "very satisfying."

The whole case began the morning of May 23 when Panepinto was working the 11 p. m. to 7 a. m. shift in downtown. During that shift he was accused of failing to make hourly calls to the station and "sleeping on duty" in a parked cab.

Panepinto, who was given a 10-day suspension on the charges on May 24, partially denied the first charge and completely denied the second charge at the June 12 hearing. Of the latter, he said he was ill and just "relaxing" when seen in the parked cab by Lt. Joseph Reday.

In his testimony at the June 12 hearing, Reday said he found Panepinto "sleeping" in a cab parked in the rear of the Monessen Taxi Co. at 465 Schoonmaker Ave. about 5 a. m.

Lieutenant 'Mad'

Reday said he nudged Panepinto and told him to make his rounds.

"I was so mad I slammed the door and left him," Reday said.

Panepinto insisted he was not sleeping but was "ill," suffering from a cold and headaches. He said he wasn't in the cab more than five minutes "at the most."

Yesterday, Manderino produced a prescription signed by Dr. Joseph D'Alessio which prescribed medicine to treat Panepinto's cold. The prescription was dated May 20, three days before the alleged offenses occurred.

Peter Stieska, pharmacist at Monessen Pharmacy No. 2, testified he filled the prescription the same day and added that "Panepinto didn't look well at all when he came into the drug store."

William and George Hatalowich, co-operators of the taxi company, also testified in Panepinto's behalf. Both said they talked to Panepinto about 5:15 the morning of May 23 and said Panepinto complained of being ill.

Gave Aspirins

William said he then went home. George remained on duty and testified that he gave Panepinto some aspirins and that the latter then went to the rear of the company garage for water. George, in the meantime, according to his testimony, went on a taxi call.

George said that when he returned about 5:30 Panepinto was not in the garage. He said he saw him a half-hour later making his rounds.

None of this evidence was presented at the initial hearing.

After hearing the testimony, Council recessed, held a nearly two-hour caucus and then returned with their decision to reinstate Panepinto.

Panepinto returned to work on the 11 p. m. to 7 a. m. shift last night.

TELLS ABOUT JOB WITH HOFFA — Ex-convict Herman Kierdorf, who has a record of arrest for kidnaping, armed robbery and impersonating an officer, reads a statement to the Senate labor rackets hearing in Washington in which he tells about being hired by Teamsters official James Hoffa. Kierdorf said Hoffa hired him as business agent of Joint Council 43 in Detroit after he promised to be "a scholar and a gentleman." At left is Kierdorf's attorney, George S. Fitzgerald. The Senate is investigating Hoffa.

Yesterday Was Bad Day for James Hoffa

WASHINGTON (UP) — There is a 50-50 chance the Senate Rackets Committee will put Midwest Teamster boss James R. Hoffa back in the witness chair this week to answer new charges, committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy said today.

Kennedy said Hoffa's recall to testify, if it comes, would be in the next few days. However, he said Hoffa definitely would not be summoned next week when he seeks election as president of the nation's largest union at the Teamster convention starting Monday in Miami Beach.

The committee called various associates of Hoffa to testify today as it continued to peck away at the stocky labor leader's financial operations.

Wednesday was a bad day for Hoffa. The AFL-CIO Executive Council told the Teamsters to boot him out of any union office in 30 days or face possible suspension themselves. A federal grand jury in New York indicted him on five perjury counts in a wiretapping case.

There was committee testimony — which was denied — that Hoffa got payoffs from Detroit restaurant owners and made loans to a Wayne County official who negotiated restaurant contracts.

Kennedy told reporters the committee has evidence of other financial arrangements between Hoffa and other government officials in Michigan, "elected and otherwise." However, he said the committee would not dig into the matter during the current hearings.

Payoffs Charged

The committee said Hoffa paid $170,000 in legal fees and salary for union officials indicted for extortion or dynamiting, including $85,489 paid to the wives of four Pontiac, Mich., officials who went to jail in an extortion case.

John Leyhan, secretary-treasurer of Greenfield Mills Restaurant Co., Detroit, testified he overheard at a restauranteurs' dinner seven or eight years ago that Hoffa was getting a payoff from the Detroit Restaurant Guild disguised as the salary of the brother-in-law of Guild President Theodore Kartsen.

The brother-in-law, Garret Reading, told a variety of stories. He said he got $50 a week salary and another $50 expenses from the guild since 1951 as a "secret agent" to get new members, or maybe it was to check on the complaints of employes. He said his duties consisted of having a cup of coffee "once in a great while" and chatting with the waitress.

any demonstration as the convoy passed.

The station wagon pulled up at the entrance of the school at 8:35 a.m. The children climbed out.

They walked down the sidewalk, with two soldiers preceding them and three walking behind them, and went up the steps into the front door of the school.

About 100 white students stood on the school steps and grounds watching them enter.

The white students entered the building after the Negroes were inside.

The Airborne Division paratroops yielded their posts temporarily to a unit of National Guardsmen but returned early today to maintain their iron grip around forcibly - integrated Central High.

The nine Negroes were taken to school Wednesday in an Army station wagon with a jeepload of troopers in front of it and another jeepload behind. The same convoy returned them after school was dismissed to the home of Mrs. Lucius C. Bates, president of the Arkansas chapter of the NAACP.

There their parents picked them up, chattering about their first day in a previously all-white school and took them home. An Army officer made plans with Mrs. Bates to pick them up at her home and take them to school today.

Students Eat Together

The Negroes said they ate with white students. One girl said she was standing in line in the cafeteria and a white girl came up to her and asked her to come over to their table.

A 15-year-old white boy in blue jeans said a soldier was posted outside the door of each classroom in which a Negro was studying.

"They even walked behind the colored kids when they moved between classes," he said.

Teenage Girls Hurt in Crash

Two teenage girls were slightly injured in a two-car crash on the Express Highway near Twilight Borough about 10:50 last night, state police reported today.

Injured were Peggy Bear, 16, driver of one of the cars, and Virginia Boulanger, 17, her passenger, both of R. D. 1, Charleroi. Both received minor cuts and bruises.

According to reports, the Bear car had run out of gas and was stopped on the road when it was struck in the rear by a machine driven by Stanley Hughes, 42, of Roscoe.

Damage was placed at $1,800.

ance would affect their establishments.

Robert Way, another consultant, said that commercial and industrial buildings, including small grocery stores, which are located in residential districts would eventually be removed under the ordinance.

He said that owners, however, will be given a long period of time to amortize their investments.

Commission member Charles W. Hagerstrand said the ordinance states that properties will not have to be removed for at least 10 years from the date the ordinance becomes law or 20 years after the date the building permit was issued, "whichever is longer."

Mrs. Zendarsky asked whether if she remodeled her store before the ordinance became effective, the building permit be sanctioned. She was informed it would be.

'Better Monessen'

Herman Albert, local merchant, wanted to know why these corner stores should be "eliminated" when they are a convenience for persons who want to buy just a loaf of bread or a quart of milk.

"There are many old persons who will be hurt," he said.

Way answered by stating that no person will have to walk more than three-fourths of a mile to the nearest store in shopping areas as designated in the ordinance.

Thomas F. Preston, another commission member, said there are going to be "some people who are going to be hurt, naturally.

"What we are trying to do under this ordinance is to build a better Monessen," Preston said. "Progress always requires sacrifices."

In one of a series of questions, Gilbert Mihalich, local attorney, wanted to know how "rigid is the code. What about its elasticity?"

Pore said that the ordinance calls for a zoning officer who will be responsible for carrying out the ordinance.

"If a person is dissatisfied with the decision of the zoning officer," Pore said, "the person can take it up with a board of adjustment which will either approve or disapprove of the officer's decision."

Plenty of Time

Mihalich also said the commission should inform the public on "how long a time they have to adapt themselves to the ordinance."

Pore said, "We intend to allow as much time as necessary and as long as people request information. If none is requested, we intend to act promptly."

Robert Billick, funeral director, said he has just built a combination funeral home and apartment in a zone marked residential in the ordinance and wanted to know his situation.

He was told he could continue "as is" but no expansion will be permitted after the code becomes law.

J. Lawrence Buchanan, district manager of Bell Telephone, asked about his firm's building located in a residential zone.

Under the ruling in the code for public utilities, Buchanan was informed that utilities seeking to expand must meet with the commission to decide what is "in the best interest of the public."

Another resident, Francis Kasper, said there isn't "too much property left to develop in Monessen now. Where do we go from here?"

New School Location

Way said surveys show that there is some 32 per cent of land still available for development. He noted that most of it is slope areas that can not be developed.

Kasper said he noted on one of the maps that the proposed zoning reaches into Rostraver Twp.

The commission said its planning calls for three miles outside the City limits. It stressed that planning does not mean acquisition of property.

Henry Furio, Monessen High School principal, asked where new schools would be located.

He was informed that there may eventually be a joint-senior-junior high school located in the vicinity of the present City Park and that later a senior high school would be located in a portion of Rostraver Twp. None of this is definite, it was pointed out, and the plans are for the long range.

Murino DeAngelis asked why Service Lane in the Park Plan is earmarked, as a place where multiple dwellings, such as apartments, could be constructed.

Pore said that surveys show the area there "will support a higher density of population" and would be suitable for multiple dwellings. He added that many requirements would have to be met before such construction would be allowed.

At the close of the meeting, Kasper asked if the proposed ordinance "is constitutional."

Commission Solicitor Frank Ezerski Jr. replied:

"The constitution states that no person's property can be taken without due process of law. However, that same constitution vests in municipalities the authority to pass laws to promote the health, safety and general welfare of the community."

Ezerski added that several states have already recognized "this type of zoning ordinance, although it never has been tested by a higher court in Pennsylvania."

He also said "we are prepared to defend our position."

Sewage

000 to $800,000 on the installation cost. The operation costs would also be increased from $60,000 to $80,000 per year, the report continued.

The Page site is not available because the company has refused to consider sale of its property, according to the report. The P&LE site would require construction of a concrete river wall which the Knowles engineers doubt would meet the approval of the U. S. Engineers and the Department of Forests and Waters because of stream encroachment and the flood effect upon properties located upstream. The cost would also run into several hundred thousand dollars.

In summarizing, the Knowles engineers said they did not feel the sewage disposal site would be justified anywhere but the brewery location. They estimated that any other site would add from $12 to $16 per year on the sewage bill of a typical residential customer.

"In our opinion this would be completely unjustified and undesirable," the report stated.

Council accepted the report for study.

Firemen Ask for Vaccine

In a letter to City Council yesterday, the Monessen Volunteer Fire Department asked the City to furnish its members with Asiatic flu shots free of charge.

The request was denied on the advice of City Solicitor Frank P. Ezerski, who said that volunteer firemen are not "looked upon as City employes and therefore, the City has no legal right to expend money in this case."

He added, however, that if there is an epidemic and "the proper functioning of the City is endangered," the City could spend the money.

In other action during yesterday's lengthy meeting, John Kotch Jr., director of public safety, said an area on Grand Blvd. off Third St. Ext. is becoming a "garbage dump." He said people are dumping rubbish instead of fill as requested by the owner of the property, Michael Skurpan Sr.

Skurpan told members of Council that people are dumping without permission. He said he will post signs warning against dumping.

Joseph's Nursery on Rostraver St. will be notified by the City solicitor to discontinue dumping rock and dirt in an area in the rear of the establishment. Some of the rock and dirt is covering City manholes.

Acting City Engineer Richard Belan was instructed to investigate a sewer problem near the tunnel of the Monessen Page Division of American Chain & Cable Co., Inc. Paul Nicoden, plant official, said the sewer backs up and causes a flood in the tunnel "everytime it rains."

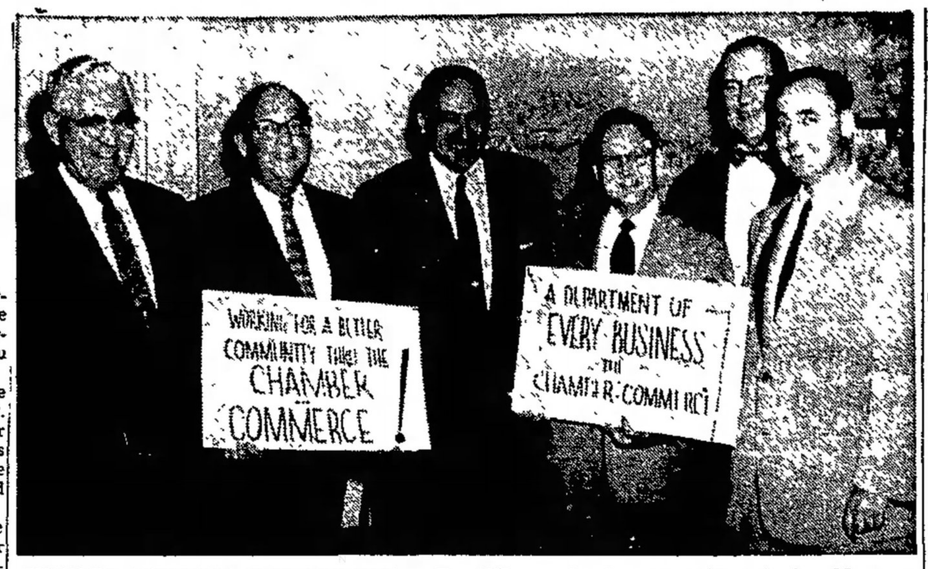
Tavern Owners Organize Here

The Monessen Tavern Owners Association organized at a meeting held Tuesday at Fifth Avenue Hotel. The group was formerly known as the Monessen Retail Liquor Dealers Association.

The 30 members present elected the following officers:

Walter Kovalchuk, president; Michael Mikan, vice-president; John Beck, treasurer, and Stephen Zilka, secretary.

The next meeting will be Monday at Donner Grille.



CHAMBER CAMPAIGN 'OVER THE TOP' — The 1957 membership campaign of the Monessen Chamber of Commerce ended yesterday on a successful note. Fifty-five new members were enrolled to boost the Chamber's membership to an all-time high of 515. The "campaigners" were rewarded for their efforts with a "victory dinner" at Johnson's Restaurant. Among the guests were Harvey Seymour, general manager of the Monessen Page Division of the American Chain and Cable Co. Inc., Harold B. Cramer, membership chairman, Mayor Hugo Parente; Charles Hagerstrand, Chamber president; Paul Niccolai and A. E. Wilen, team captains in the membership drive.

Chamber Membership Drive Is 'Big Success'

The 1957 membership campaign of the Monessen Chamber of Commerce was hailed as a "great success" yesterday during a victory dinner at Johnson's Restaurant.

Harold B. Cramer, membership chairman, reported that 55 new members were enrolled during the campaign which closed with the dinner. The Chamber now has an all-time high membership of 515.

A. E. Wilen, captain of one of the two "campaign teams" said that his group enrolled 30 new members. Paul T. Nicoden, head of the other team, reported 25 members.

As a result, the campaign far exceeded its goal of 40. The "campaigners" will be rewarded for their efforts on Oct. 27 when they will attend the Pittsburgh Steeler football game and a dinner at the Pittsburgh Athletic Club. The treat will be financed by local business and industrial firms.

Since Cramer took over as membership chairman in 1954, the Chamber has doubled its size.

Also attending yesterday's meeting was Chamber President Charles W. Hagerstrand who congratulated the "campaigners."

Other guests were Mayor Hugo Parente, Councilman David Victoria, City Treasurer John Spielman and Harvey Seymour, general manager of the Monessen Page Plant of the American Chain and Cable Co.

Cramer presented each campaigner with a gift.

Also in attendance were Nate Williams, assistant to McGonigle, Harold A. Stewart, state committee, Mrs. Nellie George Anderson, state committeewoman; Edwin A. Swink, county chairman; and Mrs. Emma W. McIntire, vice chairman of the county committee.

Why the Army Is In Little Rock

PRESIDENT Eisenhower has done the right thing — in our opinion, the only thing — at Little Rock to confront the lawless mob with overwhelming force. And we feel sure that public opinion over the country, perhaps even in Little Rock, will quickly register a similar verdict.

But having said this, it would be useless for anyone to pretend to be pleased by what is taking place. It adds up to a national disgrace, a humiliation so deep and ugly that none of us can soon forget it.

This, of course, is not the way to effect compliance with the Supreme Court decisions on segregation. Because compliance involves a serious change in the social order of the South, it cannot be accomplished at the end of a bayonet.

President Eisenhower knows this. So does every other intelligent American, North or South, who has given any thought at all to the question.

It is precisely for this reason that we must remember why the President has sent the Army into Little Rock. It is not to enforce integration against the will of the community. It is to suppress the mob and uphold the law in the face of anarchy.

* * *

THIS may seem to some a nice distinction. But it is a real distinction and one which the American people must keep foremost in their minds as they support the President through this crisis.

It is almost exactly the distinction which President Lincoln made between the abolition of slavery and the preservation of the Union. Lincoln said repeatedly that he was not fighting the South to free the slaves.

"My paramount object in this struggle," he wrote to Horace Greeley, "is to save the Union, and is not either to save or destroy slavery. If I could save the Union without frecing any slave, I would do it. . ."

It is in this spirit that the man who stands in Lincoln's place today has sent the troops into Little Rock. A mob had obstructed the law and the Governor of Arkansas had yielded to the mob. For the President not to have acted as he did would have produced anarchy. The issue is not segregation but order under law.

To be sure, the Negro children have been escorted into the Central High School by federal soldiers. But only because they were not escorted by the National Guard of Arkansas when it was under the orders of Governor Faubus. Where before there was lawlessness, now there is law.

* * *

WE HOPE and pray that the Southern politicians of the Senator Claghorn school who are now bleating the threats and spitting the venom of 1861 are not speaking for the people of the South. We feel sure they are not.

For if not, Little Rock will be an isolated episode and not a pattern. And the South will resume its slow but steady progress toward a solution of this and other racial problems, problems which are shared in greater or less degree by every other section of the country.

Meanwhile, the President is right in what he is doing, and the people must stand solidly with him.

A Sensible Approach

THE MONESSEN City Council did the sensible thing yesterday when it rescinded a hasty decision made at its previous meeting to hold a popular referendum on the question of fluoridation of the local water supply.

After a second look at the matter, the Council concluded that a referendum would not resolve the issue. At the most it would be no more than advisory since the water supply is controlled by the Charleroi Borough Authority, which also provides water to Charleroi and Donora and several smaller communities.

Instead, the Council has decided to refer the question to a panel of citizens, including doctors, dentists and others qualified to weigh scientific evidence, and ask the panel to bring in a recommendation after a thorough study.

Efforts will also be made to get Charleroi and Donora to participate in the study in the hope that a common decision can be reached. The Charleroi Authority has indicated that it will fluoridate the water supply only if the program has official support in the communities it serves.

The Monessen Council is now on the right track towards a solution that will be in the public interest. All the responsible public health authorities maintain that fluoridation is a cheap, harmless and effective means of reducing tooth decay in children. And there is a vast quantity of scientific data behind their judgment, data which the average citizen has neither the background nor the time to evaluate.

By putting the question in the hands of a citizen committee composed of persons with suitable qualifications, the Council will avoid a propaganda battle such as a referendum would be sure to produce and will get an opinion in which both it and the public can place some confidence.

Merry-Go-Round—

6th Fleet Is Stabilizing Influence

(Editor's Note: Drew Pearson is reporting from the eastern Mediterranean.)

By DREW PEARSON

ABOARD THE USS SALEM, FLAGSHIP 6TH FLEET, Sept. 25 — There was a day shortly after the first Bikini bomb test, when the strategists figured that navies were outdated and that Uncle Sam's fleet would sail the seven seas no more.

Mr. Pearson

Today just the opposite is true. With Moscow well ahead of the British as the second navy in the world and with a submarine fleet far bigger than ours, the U. S. Navy has become more important than ever.

Flying over the 6th Fleet, fanned out in the blue waters of the Mediterranean, watching both fighters and bombers take off from the deck of the Franklin Roosevelt every few minutes in practice maneuvers toward satellite countries, you get a sense of security and can understand why our Mediterranean allies appreciate its presence.

Various Greek, Turkish and Israeli officials expressed to me their satisfaction over the 6th Fleet. The Governor of Rhodes even remarked that two visits per year by part of the fleet balanced the island's economy. In Athens, I noted that the arrival of seven American ships was greeted enthusiastically.

Marines by Helicopter

To see how the fleet really operates, however, I flew first aboard the carrier Roosevelt, then the flagship USS Salem, 21,000-ton cruiser which juts up out of the Mediterranean like a traveling rock of Gibraltar.

The fleet's personnel were busy preparing for a unique and highly important NATO maneuver on the Turkish coast — namely, the Marine landing by both helicopter and small boat.

For this maneuver, NATO commanders picked Saros Bay, a thin finger of water in European Turkey just a few miles from Greece.

This is one of the most strategic spots in the world. Directly across to the south is the Dardanelles, whose beaches still bear the bleached bones of British ships, remnants of Churchill's and Lord Kitchener's tragic Gallipoli landing where thousands of British troops lost their lives trying to storm Turkey in World War I.

A few miles away to the north, Alexander the Great marched his legions to conquer the Persians. Further south the Crusaders from France and England stormed Moslem shores in a 100-year effort to take the holy places of Christ away from the infidels.

This is the crossroads of east and west.

It is the crossroads which Russia must take to dominate the Mediterranean, which the Czars coveted for a hundred years and which present rulers of the Kremlin not only covet but seem determined to dominate.

Already the Soviet has three potential submarine bases — Albania, Egypt, and Syria — and the fleet recently sighted a Russian cruiser-destroyer force en route from Albania to Syria. When hailed by the Salem, the Russian ships didn't return the courtesy of the sea. Three Russian subs, attached to the Egyptian fleet, are one more than the subs in the 6th Fleet.

Further north, in the Black Sea, Russia has three times the naval strength of the 6th Fleet. Just why she keeps it bottled in the Black Sea remains a mystery.

Janes "Fighting Ships" also lists Russia as having twenty 15,000-ton cruisers of the Swerdlov class, all newer than the Salem, plus seven heavy cruisers, plus excellent new destroyers and over 500 submarines, mostly new.

For the first time since the war, Russian ships have been venturing from the Baltic and Black Seas and cruising in the Mediterranean and Atlantic. In brief, the Russian Navy is now breaking out of its cocoon.

In Saros Bay, therefore, a strategic neck of old Europe not far from the Russian Black Sea fleet 8,000 Marines and 75 U. S. vessels will stage the first full helicopter amphibious landing ever seen in Europe.

At Tarawa in World War II, 200 Marines were lost in rough seas. Heavy shelling by Japanese shore batteries at Iwo Jima caused more Marines to be lost in a desperate hand-to-hand struggle for the beachhead.

But in this operation, helicolters will fly 1,000 Marines, eight men per helicopter, over the heads of the enemy to attack from the rear, while other Marines attack from landing boats. Turkish army support will be given, from land. The maneuver will be watched by NATO allies, and unofficially but probably with greater curiosity by Russians from a distance on the Black Sea.

Today and Tomorrow—

America Needs More Humility

By WALTER LIPPMANN

What with Little Rock, Cyprus, Algeria, Kashmir, and so forth, the work of the American propagandist is not at present a happy one. It is hard to keep bright and convincing the image of America as the leader of the free nations and the liberator of the captive. For we are a long way short of having learned to practice all that we preach. Yet we preach incessantly about justice and freedom, law and order.

Mr. Lippmann

At home, there is the stark fact that there exists among us a caste system based on the color of a man's skin. It mocks us and haunts us whenever we become eloquent and indignant in the United Nations. It mocks us and haunts us when we sprinkle our speeches and writings with advice and warnings and exhortations.

There is no use fooling ourselves. The caste system in this country, particularly when as in Little Rock it is maintained by troops, is an enormous, indeed an almost insuperable, obstacle to our leadership in the cause of freedom and human equality.

Abroad, we find ourselves caught in a series of dilemmas'— France and the Arabs, Israel and the Arabs, Pakistan and India — where we are damned if we choose and damned if we shrink from choosing, and where neither alternative is so noble and so fine as we like our position to be.

Power Distributed

My own view is that much of this, though not the whole of it, is so to speak in the nature of things, and beyond our control. It is one of the facts of life that no country, which is as powerful and as rich as is the United States, can expect not to be feared, distrusted, envied and widely disliked.

But I think also that all this is much worse than it needs to be. It is more damaging than it would be if those who represent us, particularly the President and the Secretary of State, displayed more of the wisdom that should direct, and of the grace that should sweeten, the possession of great power and great wealth.

There exists a remedy, though not a cure, for the excess of our unpopularity and for the abnormal dislike that exists abroad for Mr. Dulles. The remedy is a strong and, for those who need it, a bitter medicine.

It calls for a change in the moral posture which the President and Secretary Dulles habitually adopt when they address mankind. It is a change which would require on their part a humility, that is now lacking, about our moral grandeur, and a new candor. For our faults and our sins all the bigger when they are seen by the world against the excessively self-righteous picture that is our official version of ourselves.

In their speeches and press conferences, the President and the Secretary are too noble about our ideals, and never humble at all about our human, our very human, failures and faults. This alienates, indeed enrages, those who are by national interest our friends and allies, at least the prouder ones among them, who do not in hope of favors to come, lick our boots. For with great power, which is always suspect, there should go a decent humility and there should be no pretense, no intimation, no implied assumption, not a whisper or a nod that we are not only stronger and richer than our neighbors but quite a bit better.

The President himself is not an arrogant or a proud man. But he is a naive man in that he believes sincerely that the enunciation of moral ideals will somehow bring about the realization of those ideals. Not long ago he came very near to saying that it was his mission to express the aspirations of this country, leaving it to Mr. Dulles to adjust those aspirations to the realities. This a novel conception of what it means to be the head of a government. The net practical effect has been to make the world think that the President preaches one thing and that Mr. Dulles does something else.

Mr. Dulles is in action a tough and realistic operator in the realm of expediency. But in speech he is a moralizer, the invariable and confident exponent of all that is righteous. His great handicap, which might be removed by a searching of soul, is that he lays down the moral law without humor and humility, as one of the righteous speaking down to the unrighteous.

This lack of the grace of humility does not make for affection or understanding, or even for charity, as when in Little Rock, we, like other nations, fall far short of our professed ideals. It makes, rather, for a kind of unholy satisfaction, human nature being what it is, that we who have not been humble, have been humiliated, and that we who have held our heads too stiffly and too high, have stumbled and fallen on our faces.

Little Rock May not Establish Precedent

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP)—The dispute over racial integration of Little Rock's Central High School is no more than a preliminary incident in the developing contest over the educational co-minglings of white and Negro children. It is not likely to establish a quickly effective precedent.

The showdown will not take place in Little Rock, no matter how President Eisenhower applies federal force unless, perhaps, he should proclaim martial law to place a military governor in charge. Arkansas is a border state, evidently substantially divided on integration of the schools.

Mr. Wilson

The showdown will come—if at all—in a wholly southern state such as Virginia, South Carolina, Georgia or Mississippi. Virginia, for example, has erected a bulwark of state law against integration. There is no token integration in Virginia as there is in Arkansas.

Interview With Byrnes

South Carolina law is similar. U. S. News and World Report recently interviewed James F. Byrnes, former associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court who later served as governor of South Carolina would close its public schools to frustrate integration.

"It is already the law of the state," Byrnes replied, "that, if a student be transferred from a Negro school to a white school or from a white school to a Negro school, by order of the court, all appropriations for that school shall immediately cease."

Q: Wouldn't that be a violation of the Supreme Court order that no state shall take any action along the lines of preventing integration?

Both Schools Affected

A: "Well, I should add that the law says the appropriation shall cease for the school to which the Negro student is transferred and also, all appropriations shall cease for the school from which he comes."

Q: Does the federal government have power to cause South Carolina to spend money it does not want to spend?

A: "The administrators would not be able to spend it."

Q: Has the federal government any power to compel a state to appropriate money it does not want to appropriate?

A: "No, I can see no way by which a court could order a legislator to vote 'aye' on an appropriation bill instead of 'no'."

These state laws and any others, of course, must stand or fall before the Supreme Court. Thereafter, events in Little Rock, wherever they may lead, probably would be duplicated in greater stress in the deep South.

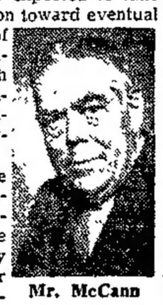
Behind The News—

Poland Still Occupies Old German Territory

By CHARLES M. McCANN

The future of the East German territory now occupied by Poland is likely to become a big issue before long.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is expected to take the first step soon toward eventual establishment of formal diplomatic relations with the "independent" Communist Polish government.



Mr. McCann

When that time comes, the status of the 38,900-square-mile area of Germany east of the Oder and Neisse rivers will become a topic for discussion and for negotiation.

The territory has been occupied by Poland since 1945. Then, at the Potsdam Conference, the United States, Great Britain and Soviet Russia put the rich territory under Polish administration pending the conclusion of a final German Peace Treaty.

Still No Treaty

Twelve years later, no such treaty has been signed. But Russia and Poland regard the Oder-Neisse line as the permanent frontier. The East German Communist puppet government has formally "recognized" the area as permanently Polish. It lacks any authority to give such recognition, of course. The United States, Britain and West Germany still regard the territory as German, under Polish occupation.

There have been indications for several months that Adenauer thought it would be a good idea to establish relations with Poland.

Adenauer has said repeatedly and emphatically that Germany never will go to war to recover the territory.

Blow Against Adenauer

But the West German government was deeply disturbed when President Tito of Yugoslavia, welcoming Polish Communist Leader Wladyslaw Gomulka to Belgrade for their conference this month, called for the establishment of the Oder-Neisse line as the permanent border.

That development might have ended any prospect of early establishment of relations between West Germany and Poland.

But Adenauer kept his head, and even took things a bit farther in a CBS television - radio interviews in Bonn Sunday, when he made it known that he intended first to seek closer trade and commercial relations and then "proceed step by step."

Adenauer did not go into details. But he seemed to imply plainly that he might not insist on the unconditional return of the territory.

Historical Novel Proves Colorful

By UNITED PRESS

Although history may at times be stranger than fiction, it is not as a rule as colorful.

Charles Dexter provides an exception to prove this rule with his first book, "The Street of Kings" (Holt)—a carefully researched account of the scandalous association between Robin Carr and Frances Howard which shocked the court of King James I.

Carr, a handsome, stalwart but not overbright Scot, was for years James's favorite. In the sunshine of the royal smile, he grew rapidly from commoner to knight, to viscount and at last to Earl of Somerset.

Frances, daughter of one of England's first families, was one of the great beauties of the Jacobean Court. When Carr met her she was the Countess of Essex — though still a virgin, Dexter thinks. (This opinion was confirmed officially by a court of inquiry some years later, although by that time the verdict was obviously a joke.)

ON THE BALL

By CLAIR BROWN

Fumble Feeling Better This Week

Ol' Phil Fumble feels pretty good this week after posting a score of 11 right, four wrong on last week's predictions, which coupled with his poor 9-6 starting average gives him a season mark of 20-10 for a respectable (but not overwhelming) .667 average. (Nothing has been heard from Nessenom, the native of India who helped with the first week predictions — and is Phil glad!) Here's the way Fumble sees them this week: UNIONTOWN at Monessen; CHARLEROI at Donora; Redstone at BROWNSVILLE; Monongahela at CLAIRTON; BELLMAR at Penn Joint; CALIFORNIA at Rostraver; South Huntingdon at WEST NEWTON; Trinty at WASHINGTON; North Union at WAYNESBURG; Ellsworth at MAPLETOWN; SOUTH UNION at Georges; BENTLEYVILLE at West Bethlehem; Point Marion at PERRYOPOLIS; Masontown at CARMICHAELS and ELIZABETH - FORWARD at West Allegheny.

Monessen's Sportsmen's Association and Auxiliary will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the Club rooms to discuss plans for the coming hunting season, especially the bow and arrow campaign . . . Rostraver Sportsmen will hold an annual picnic Sunday at Croation Park, Pricedale, starting at 2 p. m. . . . Navy will lose its home stadium but the Middies aren't complaining for they'll get a new one when the 31,000 seat Navy-Marine Corps Memorial Stadium is built after Thompson Field (Middies' current home) is demolished next month . . . Two home games on the Midshipmen's schedule with Georgia and Philadelphia will be played at Norfolk, Va. and Philadelphia. In all other games Navy will be the visiting team.

West Newton Grads Doing Fine

West Newton High School Principal George Bulazo is rather proud (and he should be) of the fact that five of his former gridders are currently doing quite well in college . . . They are Sam Achtzehn at Maryland, Andy Kasic at Pitt, Bud Morrison at Georgia, recently converted from a fullback to an end post, Dan Beam, at California Teachers and Barry McCoy at Dennison . . . Those five lads have the honor of being the first West Newton High athletes ever to attend college on an athletic scholarship, thanks to Bulazo . . . Incidentally, Beam and McCoy played opposite each other in the Vulcan-Dennison game last week.

Opposite bits of news reached here on two former valley football standouts Billy Russell of Donora and Dave Washington of Brownsville . . . Russell paced Detroit to a two-touchdown win over Marquette Saturday but Washington, who quarterbacked the Brownies for three years, is out for the season at Pratt Junior College, Kansas with a broken arm suffered in the first game of the season . . . Another former Brownie gridder, Willie Vasiloff, has won a starting guard berth at Miami where Charleroi's Maury Guttman is the second string quarterback as a sophomore . . . Carroll Township's Midget gridders, playing football for the first time this season in the Donora Midget League, have split their first two starts.

'Classy' Gym for Hurricanes

Bellmar's proposed new high school gymnasium which is scheduled to be ready for the 1959 season, will rank second in the valley, as to size and seating capacity, only to Monessen's classy set-up . . . The current Bellmar gym will not be enlarged to make the new court as was done in Monongahela when the floor was "turned" to run length-wise once an addition was made to the old gym . . . Instead the 'Cane gymnasium will be brand new and the current court be used for a cafeteria . . . Games may be played on the present floor if the construction work does not tie in before basketball season is over, otherwise Tom Healey's cagers will probably use the Marion gym.

Junior High in 13-6 Victory

Bewszka Scores on Two Runs

Halfback Steve Bewszka of the Monessen Junior High grid team, supplied all the punch the locals needed in posting a 13-6 victory in their 1957 season opener at Brownsville yesterday afternoon.

Although Brownsville won the "battle of the sticks" with 9 first downs to Monessen's 2, it was the excellent running and heads up playing of Bewszka which spelled the difference.

Two For Bewszka

In the first period, Bewszka picked up a fumble and raced 35 yards to paydirt then topped that in the third quarter when he took off on a 29-yard run around end to climax a 64 yard touchdown drive, shaking off three would-be tacklers.

Brownsville scored in the final period on a pass from Quarterback Jim Upperman to halfback Matt Horwatt

The lone extra-point was tacked on by a pass from Monessen quarterback Tony Romasco to end Ted Darby.

Next start for the locals is hosting Donora here next Tuesday.

Ron Feher climaxed a Vernon drive by going over for a touchdown in the first period to give the Kenny Clark-coached eleven a 6-0 lead but it held only until the second quarter as Perryopolis went on to cop a 13-6 decision yesterday.

Perry's Dan Welling tallied in the second quarter and Pirilla added the extra point for a 7-6 Perry lead. Another TD in the last quarter supplied insurance for the victory.

The entire game featured drives on short gain by both teams with no spectacular long runs of any sort, in a well-played contest.

Rostraver Junior High started its 1957 season off in fine style yesterday in the opening defense of its Mon Valley Junior Conference crown with a 28-13 win over Marion.

Coach Ed Hogan's lads received a scare from the Harry Muckle's eleven, however, before pulling the game out of the fire.

Tom Newman and Bill Hewitt teamed to bring supply most oft he Little Leopard punch after Marion took a 13-7 first half lead.

Newman opened the scoring when he went 35 yards with a Marion fumble in the first period and Hewitt added the extra point.

Marion came back quickly, however, when Rostraver's Bill Ross was back in punt formation and the ball sailed over his head from center, Comadena recovering for a Marion TD.

Generals Go Ahead

The Little Generals then went ahead when Williams scooped up a fumble by Newman after he had intercepted a pass and let the ball slip away. Williams dashed over with it for the marker and added the extra point.

The second half was a different story as Ron Allen of Rostraver ran 35 yards to climax a drive and put the Leps ahead 21-13 Billy Ross added another on a dive play a short while later from the two. Hewitt again accounted for the extra point.

In the last quarter Rostraver scored again on a 70-yard pass play from Ross to Hewitt, Hewitt running about 40 yards after receiving the oval. A pass from Ross to Cribbs accounted for the final point.

Cubs Can Finish Ahead of Bucs In NL Standings

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, idle until their final Saturday - Sunday series with the New York Giants, were only a few percentage points out of last place today.

A win Wednesday night by Chicago over Cincinnati gave the Cubs a good chance to finish the season ahead of the Bucs. Chicago has three more games to play while Pittsburgh has two.

In trades announced today, the Pirates acquired a pitcher and two outfielders in player exchanges with Hollywood.

Added to the Pirate roster were pitcher John Lamabe and outfielders Dick Stuart and Emil Panco.

They were obtained in exchange for contracts of pitchers Clarence Churn, Donald Kildoo, Gonzales Naranjo and Joseph Trimble and shortstop Kenneth Hamlin.

Lamabe pitched for the Lincoln, Neb., farm club this past season. He had a 13-7 record and a 3.23 earned run average. Stuart hit 47 homers while playing for Hollywood, Atlanta, Ga., and Lincoln this season. Panco was disabled most of the season with a broken ankle.

Three Shutouts in Weld Shop Bowling

Williams and Lincoln both posted shutouts in Welding Shop League bowling last night to stay atop the standings. Eutectic posted the other win.

J. Miaolini rolled a 181 and 475 for scoring honors. Others posting high marks were J. Koget, G. Senitta, J. Komondor, R. Battistone and J. Lenio.

Halimi Must Fight

LILLE, France (UP) — The World Boxing Committee, which is headed by New York State Athletic Commission head Julius Helfand, will declare the world bantamweight title vacant unless champion Alphonse Halini of France defends in the near future against Raton Macias of Mexico, according to French boxing head Emile Grimeaux.

Soph Fullback Is In Pascarella's Slot; Raiders Boast Speed

Coach Armand Niccolai of the Monessen Greyhounds today took steps to fill in the tackle slot vacated by Vince Pascarella, 202-pounder, who is bedded down with the flu.

Ever since the first game of the season Niccolai has had to find tackle replacements with both regulars now out of action. Bobo Aldrich the other starter, was sidelined when he developed side trouble after the Windber tilt.

Ed Allen, 260-pound hefty, took over Aldrich's slot last week and did a creditable job.

This week it'll be Andrew Carollo, 170-pound sophomore who will fill in for Pascarella. Carollo started the season as a fullback replacement for starter Carl Rattay but due to Rattay's excellent play has not seen much action.

Halfbacks with Speed

Commenting further on the terrific Uniontown offense, Niccolai said Ken Fairfax, a newcomer and lettermen Gene Chambers and Bill Munsey have "speed to burn."

In addition to the halfback trio who alternated as starters and quarterback Sanford Stephens one of the best in the district, the Red Raiders also boast a swift, tricky fullback in Frank Platz, who goes only 142 but can run like a deer.

Another lad bearing plenty of watching by the 'Hounds is end Joe Hrezo, who is Stephens' favorite pass target, scoring two touchdowns in last week's 35-6 win over Trinity.

A banner crowd is expected for the contest here tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Niccolai will call upon his usual starters except for the Carolla replacement at tackle.

Bob Mitchell High In Fabric Bowling

Although losing to the Rams, the 49ers stayed in first place in Fabric Bowling last night. Other results saw the Steelers top the Eagles and the Bears blank the Giants.

J. Sobran's 479 was the three-game high while Bobl Mitchel had the single high of 188

Bob Mitchell had the single and three game high of 188 and 483. DiGregoria and J. Sobran also rolled over 180 single games with a 182 and 184. Other scores were Berggen T. Polinchak and J. Billy.

Standings — 49ers 9-3, Steelers 7-5, Bears 7-5, Rams 5-7, Eagles 4-8, Giants 4-8.

'Big' Plans for 1960 Olympics

SOFIA, Bulgaria (UP) — The same program, plus a more accessible location, will make the 1960 Olympic Games in Rome bigger than the 1956 games in Melbourne, and, in fact, the biggest of all time.

The International Olympic Committee assured that result Wednesday when it scrapped plans to reduce the number of sports to be contested in the Rome games.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

The Downswing

Many golf experts argue over whether the downswing actually begins with a hip movement or a shoulder pivot. I feel the downswing should be an "all-together" movement of the arms, hips, shoulders, and club.

Today's drawing shows a golfer part of the way down in his swing. His wrists are still fully cocked as they should be. Even though we don't have a good look at it, the left arm is straight, too.

Note his hips haven't come that far around. At least, we know the hips pivot a bit faster than the shoulders even if they both start together.

This is fine golf form, friends. And, as my friend "Chick" Evans, former champ of the amateurs, says, "Rhythm's the thing. Look for the rhythm in the music of your swing. It's there — or should be."

Panthers Take Off for Coast

PITTSBURGH (UP) — The Pitt football team departed by plane for Portland, Ore., this morning for their game under the lights Saturday night with Oregon.

A squad of 37 players made the trip, accompanied by tutors who will drill the team in scholastic subjects during the morning before coach John Michelosen puts them through their daily gridiron paces.

The squad was not overly discouraged by last Saturday's loss to Oklahoma.

Flu Stops Sports

DURHAM, N.C. (UP) — Next Saturday's football game between Florida A&M and North Carolina College has been cancelled because of a flu epidemic at the North Carolina school. All intercollegiate competition at North Carolina College has been cancelled until the epidemic has been brought under control.

Don Larsen Preps for Series

'Wakes up' To Post 5-1 Win

By JOHN GRIFFIN

Don Larsen, super-hero of last year's World Series but a "forgotten man" this year, suddenly is keynoting the Yankees' pitching staff as it drives to reach a peak for next week's classic.

From the hysterical glory of his perfect game against the Dodgers last fall, the hulking Larsen faded far back into the shadows during the summer months as he was whacked time and again and exiled to the bullpen. But it's almost Series time again and Larsen is firing bullet.

The big fellow made his final pre-series tune-up a dilly Wednesday night by fanning nine batters in seven innings to lead a 5-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles. In the second game of the twi-night double-header, the Orioles nipped an eased-up Whitey Ford, 4-2.

Larsen, whose last effort was a 3-0 shutout, this time allowed just four hits in the seven frames he worked. Then manager Casey Stengel let Bobby Shantz get in two innings of "practice" in which he allowed one hit.

Ford, who found it "hard to bear down" now that the pennant is clinched, gave up four hits in eight innings but lost when the Orioles broke a 2-2 tie in the ninth with a pair of runs on Billy Gardner's bases-loaded single.

The defeat of Ford, his probable opening-game hurler in the Series, didn't worry Stengel much because his pitching is sharper now than it's been in a long time. For the final three games in Boston starting Friday, Stengel plans to work two hurlers per game — Bob Turley and Shantz Friday, Tom Sturdivant and Bob Grim Saturday, and Art Ditmar and Johnny Kucks Sunday. Then it's off until Wednesday when Ford probably will face the Braves.

Buhl carried a 1-0 lead into the eighth inning, thanks to a run-scoring fly by Johnny Logan, but then was bombed for four runs on six hits. One of the singles was a pinch-hit single by Stan Musial, who boosted his average to .351 for a near-lockup on the NL batting crown.

Braves Ask for Bill Bruton Sub; Yanks Want Sal

NEW YORK (UP)—The Milwaukee Braves' request for a World Series substitute for Bill Bruton opened the door today to speculation that the New York Yankees may ask for use of pitcher Sal Maglie.

Bruton, idle since he damaged a knee in a collision on July 11, was declared out of the Series Wednesday night by Milwaukee club physicians.

In Milwaukee, General Manager John Quinn said he will ask baseball Commissioner Ford Frick to replace Bruton on the list of Braves' players eligible to play in the Series either with Ray Shearer, "rookie of the year" in the American Association, or "bonus baby" John De Merit, both outfielders.

The Yankees would like to be able to use Maglie, 40-year-old curve-ball wizard who isn't eligible because he was purchased from the Dodgers one day after the Aug. 31 deadline.

Braves' manager Fred Haney said he wouldn't go for any attempt by the Yankees to make a Maglie-for-Shearer "swap" on the eligibility roster.

Braves Vote for 'Generous Split'

MILWAUKEE (UP) — The Milwaukee Braves have made what they call a real generous" split of their expected near - record World Series money, with full shares to the regulars who have been with the team all year.

Red Schoendienst, their take charge" second baseman, also was given a full share, one of the regulars said. Schoendienst came to the club June 15 from the New York Giants in a trade for Danny O'Connell, Bobby Thomson and Ray Crone.

The players voted Wednesday to divide the money into 33 full and equal shares, with some of these broken into quarters ond halves for distribution to players who saw only brief service during the year.

Championship Tri-Stater at Heidelberg

PITTSBURGH, Sept. (Special) — The Tri-State championship stock car race is slated at Heidelberg Raceway Sunday afternoon (Sept. 29).

Herb Scott of Wexford, who ran away with the Pittsburgh Racing Association regular season championship, will hold the pole position for the 150-lap title race on the half-mile track. Starting time is 2:30 p.m.

This will be the fourth year for the post-season title race and a regular season champion has never yet won.

Buddy O'Connor won the regular season championship in 1954 but Bill Wolkon won the title race. Dick Linder won in the regular 1955 season but Lee Stover won the final race. Then Scott took the championship last season but Ed Fiola grabbed the big race.

Records Galore In GP City Loop

Records were broken with abandon at the Grand Parlor alleys last night as Cousins and the Cro-Ams topped the Elks and Aquarium in the GP City League.

George 'Harry" Curry showed a 219 and a 607 new three-game mark while Charles Vlasic had a 244 new single game mark. Skeetz Jones came close to a new record in both categories with a 236 and 533 total.

Other marks broken were the 996 single game high by Cousins and a 2799 three-game mark.

Leo Lewitsky, Art Palm, George Curry, Mike Adamio and Joe Surovchak rolled the 996 record-breaking total. Mike Adamio, Lewitsky, Reggie Szabo and Harry Myers all had over 500 three-game marks, while Chup McCleary, Joe Surovchak, John Galvan and Bernie Single also showed high records.

Standings — Cousins 5-1, Cro-Ams 3-3, Elks 3-3 and Aquarium 1-5.

Engle Hopes for More Surprises in Eighth Year as Penn State Coach

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UP) — Rip Engle, the silver - haired sage of Salisbury, Pa., embarks Saturday on his eighth season as head coach of Penn State's Nittany Lions with hopes that last year's pleasant surprise won't be this year's nightmare.

"Last year at this time, we didn't know what we had and honestly didn't expect too much," Engle said as his squad prepared to depart for Philadelphia and its opener against Penn.

"But then we had a pleasant surprise. In a pre-season scrimmage with Colgate, somehow — I guess by accident — we got 11 reserves into the game all at one time. And they clicked better than the starters," he admitted.

"That was the birth of the platoon plan here at Penn State," he said.

Starters Look Sluggish

Two weeks later in the first game of the 1956 season against Penn, Engle's starters appeared sluggish. He stormed from the bench and shouted: "Let's get that second unit in there."

Within minutes, State was off and rolling to a 34-0 victory and a 6-2-1 season.

But the big problem facing Engle this year is whether he will be able to use the platoon system.

"These boys did well for us under the platoon plan last year and if they do as well this fall, we'll be all right." Enge said. "Right now I'm worried because the second unit is not jelling as well as I had hoped."

Rip's capsule summation of this year's team is fair speed, average sized first unit and bigger second unit, fairly deep at ends, center and fullback, with four or five sophomores on the second unit line "if the platoon is used."

Two early surprises developed in the race for starting backfield assignments where a 25-year-old ex-GI, Dave Kasperian of Wooster, Mass., beat out last year's leading ground gainer, Bruce Gilmore, at left half, and Fran Palone of New Castle was running ahead of Andy Mocoyni until Palone pulled a muscle this week.

At quarterback, Al Jacks of Pittsburgh moves up from the 1956 second unit and at fullback Emil Caprara of Turtle Creek, Pa. won the starting nod over 220-pound Maurice Schleicher.

Up front on the line it will be Les Walters and Jack Faries at the ends: Bill Wehmer and Joe Bohart at tackle; Captain Joe Sabol and Richie McMillen at Guard and Chuck Ruslavage holding down the center position.

Summer, Not Winter, Worst for Pheasants

It is commonly believed that winter is the most hazardous time of year for ring-necked pheasants. This is not true in the case of pheasant hens, says Dr. Ruth L. Hine of the Wisconsin Conservation Department. She points out that recent studies on pheasant physiology have caused biologists to revise their thinking on this.

"Pheasant hens," says Dr. Hine, "are actually weakest during the late summer. Here's what happens: During the spring and early summer, pheasant hens go through a very exacting period. They mate, lay eggs, incubate them and tend the broods. When her young are on their own, the hen moults and grows a new set of feathers.

"All this is very exhausting and, by the end of summer. The hen is thin and her energy reserves are low. She is then less able to take adversity than at any other time of the year. This means that late summer can be a pretty crucial period for female pheasants."

1957 Turkey Hatches—

Game Protector Ivan Dodd Clinton County, commented early in September on the fact the weather this spring was ideal for the hatching of grouse and wild turkeys. However, he reported, as have other field officers: "At this time of year I am seeing quite a few wild turkeys not more than several weeks old, and others that will weigh only four to five pounds. This indicates there were some late hatches this summer."

Reports indicate that over much of the best wild turkey range in Pennsylvania there was a good hatch of the prized birds this year because of favorable weather during spring and early summer.

Fair to large-size broods have been quite generally noted by Game Protectors and out-doorsmen. This indicates the loss of wild turkey poults, always a determining factor, was low compared to that of last year.

Donations Now Legal—

A previous amendment of the Pennsylvania Game Law legalized the acceptance of gifts of and by the Game Commission. In the 1957 session the Legislature further amended the Law in this respect. It authorized the Commission to accept monetary donations from any person, firm, corporation or association, and stipulated that such gifts shall be placed in the Game Fund.

The 1957 amendment evidently triggered the action of a leading Pennsylvania sportsman who stands ready to lend assistance to any good wildlife management cause. He recently mailed a cash contribution to the Fund in a letter addressed to Dr. Logan J. Bennett, Executive Director of the Pennsylvania Game Commission. Explaining what motivated his generous move the donor wrote: "According to Act 154 effective September 1, the Game Commission may accept donations. Once again I want to be first. Although the contribution is small it may help a little."

The Commission's comptroller has been instructed to establish and maintain a record of all such contributions. Here the sportsman's wish for a "first" will again be realized; his name will head the list.

This cash contribution, as in the case of monies collected or received by the Commission from any and all sources, is deposited in the Game Fund. The only account on which the wildlife agency draws to finance its many wildlife management operations. The Game Commission receives no financial assistance from the State General Fund.

Bodies of Two Airmen Found

LONDON (UP) — The bodies of two of 11 U.S. airmen lost in accidents involving five planes during NATO maneuvers have been recovered from the Arctic Ocean, it was announced today.

Their names were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Two of the planes, twin-engine S2F submarine hunters carrying four men each, crashed into each other while searching for two F4D Skyray pilots who had collided.

Another pilot was missing after reporting he was bailing out over the Arctic Ocean.

A NATO spokesman said the collisions were puzzling because the weather was clear and visibility good.

Women Patients Give Testimony At Hoxsey Trial

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Two women who visited the Hoxsey Cancer Clinic at Portage, Cambria County, as patients at government request took the stand Wednesday in the clinic's trial here.

The government is seeking a permanent injunction against the treatment of out of state patients at the clinic.

Mrs. Marjorie Calloway, Falls Church, Va., said she went through the clinic last April.

Mrs. Calloway testified she had had cancer prior to her visit and was a member of the "Cured Cancer Club of Washington, D.C."

She said she asked Dr. Harold Galbreath, clinic director, if her cancer had returned. He answered it had not but that he would be "derelict in his duty" if he did not give her treatment to prevent it, Mrs. Calloway said.

Hope to Avert State Flu Epidemic

By ANTHONY R. CANNIFF

HARRISBURG (UP) — Public health authorities here are guardedly optimistic that an epidemic of Asian flu will be averted in Pennsylvania this year.

Drug manufacturers, meanwhile raced to produce sufficient supplies of the new protective vaccine.

Although this week doctors were receiving only small shipments, manufacturers were expected to supply sufficient amounts of vaccine within two to three weeks.

The U. S. Public Health Service, which must approve each batch of vaccine manufactured, released for distribution this week 1,500,000 cubic centimeters of the vaccine, bringing the total amount distributed across the nation thus far to almost 10 million cc.

The new virus strain is expected to hit Pennsylvania hardest in late October or November. Thus far only 17 cases—spread across 11 counties—have been confirmed in the state since June 10.

Dr. William R. Schrack, head of the state Health Department's Bureau of Communicable Diseases emphasized that the major threat of the Asian type influenza is not its death rate—about one in a thousand—but the number of persons who may be affected simultaneously.

Without immunization, he said, about 20 in every 100 persons in the state would probably succumb to the virus. If the disease should strike in epidemic proportions, it would virtually cripple the state.

Rate Not Impressive

In addition, Schrack pointed out that while a one-in-1,000 death rate is not impressive statistically, thousands of deaths would be involved in an epidemic among millions of persons.

Various state and local agencies, as well as many large businesses, have arranged either to provide free vaccine to their personnel or to pay a part or all of the cost of inoculation of their employes.

The Post Office Department in Harrisburg, as elsewhere, has ordered thousands of vaccine shots for its employes to prevent interruption of service by wholesale illnesses. Police and fire departments, high on all priority lists, have already begun inoculation of officers.

The state Health Department and the Welfare Department have distributed 1,500 shots for workers and patients at state institutions, and have ordered another 5,000 shots for the complete inoculation of personnel and inmates at state hospitals and schools, where the attack rate of the influenza is about twice that in unconfined groups outside.

Persons seeking vaccination for themselves and their families were advised to see their private physicians, many of whom have set up waiting lists and are inoculating on a "first come, first served" basis.

To Bring Jewels

LONDON (UP) — Queen Elizabeth will take along "many millions of dollars worth" of her personal jewels when she visits the United States and Canada next month, it was disclosed today. It will be the first time the jewels will be shown in North America. They include two dazzling Russian tiaras.

Fire Hits Studio

UNIVERSAL CITY, Calif. (UP) —Universal - International Studio officials today estimated damage at $500,000 from a fire that swept nearly a block of movie sets on the studio lot. Quick action by firemen Wednesday was credited with halting the blaze before it reached sound stages. Several street scene sets were destroyed, however.

How to buy "vitamins"

Door-to-door peddlers are around now, selling vitamin preparations and nutritional supplements. The talk is mighty convincing. But, remember, talk won't do a thing for you. There's only one way to be sure of what vitamin you need if any are needed at all. That is to see your family physician. He and he alone is qualified to prescribe for you. Always buy vitamins or nutritional supplements from a registered pharmacist. Then you'll know what you're getting—and you'll get your money's worth.

Graham Tells New Yorkers to Not Point Finger

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (UP)—Evangelist Billy Graham told 10,000 persons Wednesday night that he doubted whether "any of us here have the right to point a self-righteous finger at Little Rock."

Graham, speaking from a pulpit erected in a shopping center parking lot, said "If we don't have that (racial) problem we have others of almost equal importance," like juvenile delinquency.

The Baptist preacher from North Carolina said he did not intend to become involved in the "politics" of integration, but he wanted it known he indorsed obedience of the law.

"It is the duty of every Christian to obey the law if it does not involved a breach of his relationship with God," Graham said.

At the conclusion of his sermon 437 persons recorded "decisions for Christ."

The meeting on the shopping center parking field was the first of a week - long series of evangelistic rallies in the suburbs of New York and a follow-up to Graham's 16-week Madison Square Garden crusade.

Bullets or Butter?

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — A spokesman for the Air Defense Command's Sixth Region Headquarters was asked Wednesday to comment on an Army report that Wacs are being trained to become members of presently all-male guided missile crews. "Well, the Army mess halls are still staffed by men," the spokesman said, "perhaps the Wacs are being trained for these posts to free a man for the kitchen."

Few Incidents Mar Little Rock Peace

By LOUIS CASSELS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP)—The residents call it the corner of 14th and Schiller. The 101st Airborne Division calls it Roadblock Alpha.

Except for certain features which have been added this week, it is a typical street intersection in a typical American residential neighborhood.

A single circumstance lifted 14th and Schiller out of peaceful obscurity. It is one short block from Central High School.

Early Wednesday morning, an Army jeep careened to a halt at the 14th St. curb. A paratrooper with a walkie-talkie radio sat in the back seat. A tall, wiry major in battle dress stepped out to the sidewalk. Minutes later a detachment of 40 troops marched up. The major deployed them in two groups, on either side of 14th St., with about eight men lined up abreast across the roadway.

It was at this point that 14th and Schiller became Roadblock Alpha.

From that moment until now, no one has passed the intersection and for some reason, trouble seems to gravitate to 14th and Schiller.

The first casualty was C. E. Blake, a 45-year-old switchman on the Missouri Pacific Railroad. He got his on the front porch of 1401 Schiller St., a frame house with green-and-white striped awnings, right on the fateful corner.

Blake was one of about 20 white men who sought refuge on the tiny porch when bayonet-bearing troops moved out from the roadblock to clear the adjacent sidewalks.

The paratroopers ordered them off the porch. The order was greeted with shouts of "This is private property . . . we're guests here." Two helmeted privates started toward the porch. Blake grabbed the rifle of the first soldier to reach him. Soldier and civilian fell, wrestling for the gun.

The other paratrooper stepped over them, raised his rifle, and smashed the butt end into Blake's forehead, directly between the eyes. Blood gushed from the wound. The fallen trooper retrieved his gun. Blake was hustled off for medical treatment.

Two Stories Told

Casualty No. 2 was Paul Downs, 35, a white salesman from Springfield, Ark. His mistake was telling a paratrooper, "I'm from the South, I move slow." What happened thereafter happened quickly, and there are two versions. One, by Downs, has it that the paratrooper jabbed him with a bayonet. The other, by the Army, holds that Downs tried to brush aside an outstretched bayonet, and cut himself in the process. One way or the other, Downs got a three-inch gash in his arm.

Not all of the wounds were inflicted on whiteflesh. A 15-year-old Negro delivery boy pedaled his bike down Schiller St. and started to lug a basket of food into a house in the middle of the block. A junior-size mob of about 40 white teen - agers surrounded him, knocked him down and began mauling him. The Negro youth broke free and fled to the door of the house. The white woman who lived there saw his plight and quickly let him in, slamming the door behind him.

Some of the white boys fell to work demolishing the bicycle. Others stood on the lawn and shouted threats to burn down the house unless the Negro was evicted. The woman came to the door and told them to go away.

"What are you, a nigger-lover?" bellowed one boy.

"I'm a Christian," the woman replied quietly. Then she shut the door again .

By now word of the attack had reached Roadblock Alpha, and a squad of paratroopers came down the street on the double. For a few moments, the white youths stood their ground.

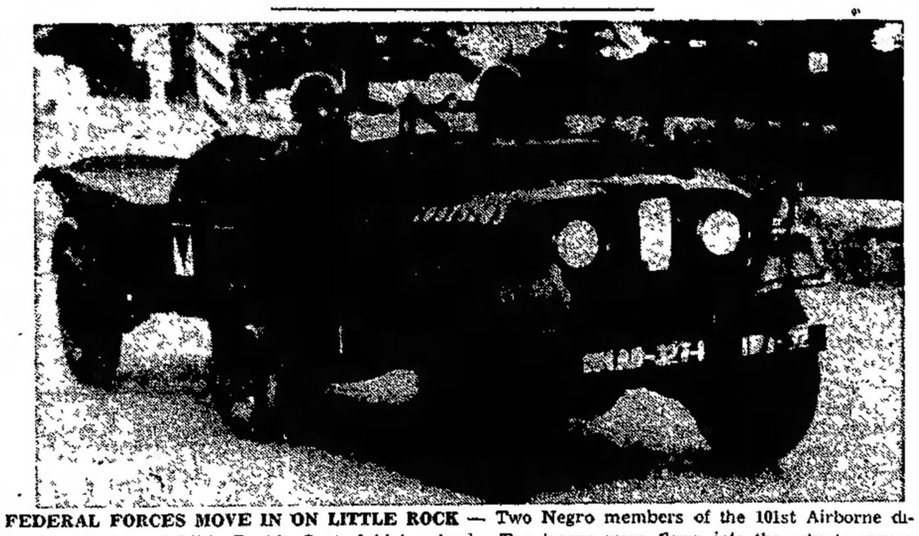
The squad commander gave two rapid fire orders

"Fix bayonets! Charge!"

At the word charge, the troopers let go in unison the bone-chilling battle cry of the famous fighting division that told the German army to go to hell at Bastogne.

The boys broke and ran in every direction. For the first time in a long tense day, some of the troopers laughed out loud.

Then they marched back to Roadblock Alpha



FEDERAL FORCES MOVE IN ON LITTLE ROCK — Two Negro members of the 101st Airborne division ride toward Little Rock's Central high school. The troops were flown into the city to insure court-ordered integration.

Louis Armstrong Changes Tune on Trip to Russia

ROCHESTER, Minn. (UP) — Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong has changed his tune. He may decide to try and melt them cats behind the Iron Curtain after all.

The Negro jazz trumpeter, who last week accused President Eisenhower of having "no guts" in the Little Rock, Ark., integration crisis, Wednesday night hailed the President's action in sending troops to the city.

"The President, he's the greatest," Armstrong shouted. "Ike and Lincoln — hallelujah."

Armstrong, who is on a tour of one night stands in the Midwest, said earlier Wednesday in Davenport, Iowa, that now he might change his mind about making a State Department sponsored good will trip to Russia.

He had called off the tour previously, saying that if he were asked in Russia about school integration in this country, he would have no answers.

Satchmo told newsmen he could not "stay mad" at the President, anyway.

Says Russians Falsely Claim Vodka Drink

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Russians may claim the telephone, the radio and the kazoo, but the United States today embraced vodka as its own.

The American Vodka Council said vodka is "as American as blueberry pie and ice cream."

The council made the historic pronouncement in a star-spangled statement inserted in the Congressional Record by Democratic Rep. Walter S. Baring of Nevada.

"Many Americans remain under the misconception that vodka is primarily a Russian drink," the council scoffed.

Hah! The council said American vodka "bears very little relationship to the cheaper Russian product which has the same name."

Blast Kills Four

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Police reported today that four children were killed and 15 others injured when a blast, apparently caused by an unexpended mortar shell, ripped through a Pusan school on Wednesday. Police said the explosion occurred when trash was being burned near the children lining up for lunch. They theorized the shell was gathered during a recent scrap metal drive and was inadvertently placed in a trash can.

Teachers Association Meets At Junior High Building

The first of four sessions planned by the Rostraver Twp. Teachers Association, local branch of the Pennsylvania State Education Association, was held on Monday in the form of a dinner meeting at the Junior High building.

Following a turkey dinner, served under the supervision of Mrs. Mary Bush, the township group convened in the library for a business meeting with Mrs. Bess Winchell, president, in charge.

A discussion was held on the increase in dues and a drive for 100 per cent membership. New members were introduced.

The speaker for the night was Miss Dorothy Harpster, assistant professor of the English Dept., at California State Teachers College. An active member of both the PSEA and NEA, she explained the dues increase and pointed out the many accomplishments of these organizations.

Miss Harpster also answered questions concerning the recent integration of Social Security and the Teachers' Retirement Fund.

Mrs. Freda S. Smith, the local Association delegate to the NEA convention held in Philadelphia in June, reported on the event.

She told of being present at the Martha Rountree Press Conference which was televised. At this program, 12 reporters interviewed Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts who is being mentioned as a possible presidential nominee in 1960.

Mrs. Smith pointed out that the NEA was organized in Philadelphia 100 years ago. She quoted from an address by vice-president Richard M. Nixon in which he said "a friendly smile, a warm handshake or a little courtesy got exactly the same response in any foreign country, as it does here in our own USA."

Another guest speaker at Monday's meeting was Dr. Frank Naylor, a faculty member at California State Teachers College.

Webster Ladies Hold Banquet

The Ladies Auxiliary of Webster held its seventh annual banquet at Twin Coaches Saturday. About 25 persons were served dinners.

Mrs. Alice Zolak was presented with a gift. She recently moved to Donora.

A floor show featuring Tony Bennett, singer, followed dinner.

P. T. A. Holds Drive

The membership drive of Rostraver Parent-Teacher Association is now underway. Anyone interested in becoming a member should contact Mrs. Mary Nega, chairman, at Belle Vernon 2313-R. All parents and teachers are urged to enroll.

Second Firing Of Atlas Missile Reported Failure

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP) —There were two strikes today on the Air Force's huge Atlas intercontinental ballistics missile. The second firing of the Atlas failed at 15,000 feet Wednesday.

Scientists were examining the shredded pieces of the Atlas which was exploded after drifting to one side and tilting back toward the ground. The test was another attempt to match Russia's claimed firing of an ICBM.

There was no official word from anywhere, but indications were that both civilian and military authorities were not altogether displeased with the result of Wednesday's operation.

Officials indicated that "a great deal of information was gained from the firing and that other attempts would definitely be made to fire an Atlas."

'MORE TROUBLE' — Arkansas Sen. John L. McClellan tells newsmen that President Eisenhower's order sending troops to Little Rock may touch off "more trouble than it will prevent." The senator added that he regretted "the proposed use of force by federal government to enforce integration."

Says China on Verge of Uprising

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP —Dr. Hu Shih, considered the greatest living Chinese philosopher, told the United Nations today Red China was on the verge of a student-led "popular uprising of the Hungarian type" last June.

Hu said in a speech prepared for delivery to the General Assembly that anti-Communist student movements responded in every part of China—"from Mukden to Canton, from Shanghai and Nanking in the east to Chungking and Chengtu in the west."

Hu set a U.N. precedent in delivering Nationalist China's major policy speech. Never before has a scholar of his stature spoken for a country in the assembly and never before has such a speech been made by anyone other than a high government official.

Thousands of students participated in demonstrations against the Communist government, he said. Communist Party officers were beaten up in student riots which were suppressed only when the Peiping regime realized th growing gravity of the situation.

Hu quoted news reports that three student ringleaders were executed at Hangyang in June and others leaders given prison sentences of 5 to 15 years.

"It is absolutely untrue that the Communist regime in China has won over the mind and the heart of the young... and the recent student revolt in China furnishes us with the best proof that, after eight years of absolute rule and ideological molding, the students in China are almost unanimously in opposition to the Communist Party and government."

Typhoon Faye Hits Okinawa

TOKYO (UP) — Typhoon Faye slammed into the U.S. military bastion at Okinawa with 148-mile-an-hour winds today.

The tropical storm, which carried gusts up to 190 miles an hour, knocked out almost every communication line in a 90-minute visit to the Pacific island.

A U. S. Army spokesman told United Press by telephone from Naha, the island's capital, there was heavy damage but the lack of communications prevented a full assessment.

"We've suffered quite a bit of damage but we still do not have full reports of the destruction," he said.

Japanese weathermen said the typhoon was headed for Japan.

Lighting School Oct. 2

Industrial people in this area are going back to school.

But it's the kind of school where they learn by doing and taking active part in the demonstrations and experiments in a subject in the forefront today — lighting for better seeing in the plant office.

The school, sponsored by West Penn Power Company, will hold the first of its sessions on Wednesday evening, Oct. 2, at 7:30 p.m. in the Slovak Home, 355 Schoonmaker Ave. in Monessen. The succeeding five sessions of the school will also be held on Wednesday evenings at the same location.

According to Carl Kramer, industrial power engineer at West Penn's Charleroi District office, industry of all kinds is looking for better methods of illumination to provide a more productive seeing environment in plant areas as well as offices.

It is in answer to requests of local industries for more information on lighting for seeing that the West Penn-sponsored school is being held: The enrollees will see demonstrations of modern industrial lighting techniques; take part in the lighting experiments; discuss lighting problems, and prescribe lighting systems to meet specified needs.

Special texts, slides and other demonstrations have been prepared especially for this school. Enrollees will receive loose leaf binders in which to keep lesson and other materials. The instructors will be Don Pripstein and J.S. Douvlos from West Penn's general headquarters.

Registrations are still being accepted, Kramer said, and will be accepted at the opening session of the school.

Knows His Product

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich. (UP)—David Tait, owner of a South Haven boat sales firm, spotted a passing Berrien County sheriff's car towing a type of boat which only he sells in this area. Tait wondered where the officer purchased the boat until Deputy Sheriff Edward Sandera came to his store. The craft was stolen from Tait's shop and abandoned near Coloma, 19 miles south of here.

Ramjet Missile Sets Records

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (UP) — Lockheed announced today that its X7 ramjet missile, dubbed Methuselah, set three new speed records while completing its 10th successful flight—also a record for any single U.S. supersonic missile.

The X7 is recovered by parachute to be flown time and time again, the company said.

Its 10th flight was made over the desert sands of the Air Force missile development center near Alamogordo, N.M. The company said it established the fastest speed for any ramjet powered missile, and fastest speed for any recoverable missile.

Its supersonic speed run was so fast, Lockheed technicians said, that its paint was burned black by the blazing air friction heat. The exact speed was not disclosed.

Mother, Sister Held Prisoner Five Years

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) — Two brothers today faced charges of holding their mother and sister prisoner for more than five years in a small, dirty apartment because they feared the women would "run into the street and get run over by a car."

Police, investigating a report about a "stench" in the building, battered their way into the heavily padlocked apartment Wednesday afternoon and freed Mrs. Anna Chowning, 80, and her spinster daughter, Lucille, 45.

The two women, temporarily blinded by the first bright daylight they had seen in years, stumbled from the apartment clad only in dirty housedresses and long wool stockings.

Charged with creating a nuisance were Eugene Chowning, 64, a tavern janitor, and his brother, Dr. Frank E. Chowning, a dentist. Eugene was arrested by police Wednesday night, but authorities were not immediately able to locate Frank. All are Negroes.

The mother and daughter were taken to General Hospital where they were bathed, dressed in fresh clothing and fed a nourshing meal.

"I'd hate to be in your shoes when you meet your maker," Lt. Anthony Watkins told Eugene when making the arrest. Eugene told authorities the imprisonment was "my brother's idea," and described his mother and sister as "mentally unbalanced."

"We were afraid they'd run into the street and get run over by a car," Eugene added.

Urban Planning For Bedford

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader today approved contracts for state technical aid on the urban planning program for Bedford Borough.

Commerce Secretary William R. Davlin said a total of $6,500 was allocated for the project, with the federal government and the community each contributing half.

The Bedford program calls for studies and reports on the physiography, population, economic base conditions, a land use map and a charting of existing community facilities and utilities. Among the projections to be made, Davlin said, are a future land use plan, a major thoroughfare plan, off-street parking, community facilities and utilities, a public improvement plan and preparation of a zoning ordinance plan and a building code.

Ike, Blough Differ on Inflation

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UP) — President Eisenhower and the board chairman of United States Steel Corp. differed sharply today over whether the administration has conquered inflation.

Eisenhower, in a brief message to the 83rd annual convention of the American Bankers Association here, said "we are meeting the challenge of inflation."

But Roger M. Blough of U.S. Steel told the bankers his firm's experience was "each year we hope to recover this ground that inflation has cost us; and we are still hoping. But we haven't made it yet."

Blough's stand was echoed by the bankers themselves, who passed a special resolution on "the inflation problem."

In it, the ABA called on government money authorities "in the current situation to resist pressures from particular groups for easy money and credit whenever signs of a slackening in their segment of the economy begin to appear."

Eisenhower said "the demand for funds to finance expansion in all parts of the country has exerted strong upward pressure on prices."

"But with your assistance in helping citizens understand the importance of sound money and the need for strong credit policies, we are meeting the challenge of inflation," he added.

Blough told the closing session of the four-day meeting that the most dangerous sign of inflation was the growing spread between the worker's wages and his production.

He said at U.S. Steel, production costs per man hour of work have climbed by 9 per cent since 1940. Output per worker has only increased by about 2 to 3 per cent. He said this left the firm with two alternatives:

"You either try within competitive limitations to take in more dollars from your customers or you go broke."

Defending recent hikes in steel prices, Blough said "in order to bridge the widening gap between our rapidly mounting costs and our slowly improving productivity, prices have been raised."

He said the "most desirable approach to use in stamping out the fires of inflation" would be to increase productivity to the point where it closed the gap between wages.

Another, "and most difficult" approach, he said, would be to hold wage boosts down to output per worker.

Insulin is derived from the pancreas glands of sheep, oxen, hogs and calves that are slaughtered.

State Studying Bids on Erie Gas Drilling

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Forests and Waters Department today studied bids submitted for the first off-shore drilling for gas and oil under the Pennsylvania portion of Lake Erie.

Department Secretary Maurice K. Goddard said a decision on the bids for leasing of more than 36,000 acres under the lake probably would be made early next week.

The New York State Natural Gas Corp., Pittsburgh, offered the Commonwealth Tuesday $3.79 per acre to lease a 19,130-acre tract adjoining the Ohio border, and $1.11 per acre for a 16,580-acre bloc five miles from the New York boundary. If the state accepts the firm's bids it would receive $90,965 rental.

The only other bidder, the Kewanee Oil Co., Philadelphia, offered 33 cents per acre for the larger tract, and 43 cents per acre for the smaller.

If oil of gas is discovered the state will also demand one-eighth of the field price, or the amount a pipeline company would pay the producer at the well.

$252,413 Grant Made to Rankin

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Commerce Department today allocated $252,413 to the Allegheny County Redevelopment Authority for redevelopment of a blighted area at Rankin.

Commerce Secretary William R. Davlin said the sum is in addition to a state Planning Board allocation of $124,856, bringing the total state allocation to $377,269 for the project covering about 28 acres in the community's downtown section.

The area is predominately residential, Davlin said, and the land will be redeveloped with modern residences, adequate shopping and parking areas and a civic center to abut a landscaped pedestrian mall.

Leftover Lamb Is Tasty When Served Antipasto Style

By EDITH BARBER

Lamb, when plentiful in market, is a good choice for the Sunday roast. You may like it best with the traditional mint sauce, or with mint and currant jelly on the side. It is just as good hot or cold for a second dinner, perhaps with mashed potatoes and seasonable vegetables.

Edith Barber

A particularly interesting way to use cold lamb is to serve it antipasto style, but to make this the main course. The sliced cold lamb is marinated with mushrooms — cooked or uncooked — in an herb-flavored French dressing. With this as the center, other appetizers in small dishes or arranged on the same platter will provide a hearty main course.

The small Italian tomatoes or sliced tomatoes, canned artichoke hearts and anchovy fillets, hearts of celery, Italian sweet peppers which may be fresh or canned are also suggested. Sliced Italian bread topped with cheese and lavishly sprinkled with paprika makes another interesting accompaniment.

One of my favorite ways of treating cold sliced lamb is to saute it lightly in butter, add a tart jelly such as grape or currant and to cook it just until the jelly melts and the lamb is thoroughly heated. As cold lamb is so good for sandwiches, there is never any problem in making use of a roast even when it is large.

COLD LAMB ANTIPASTO STYLE

½ cup olive oil
½ cup vinegar
1 teaspoon oregano
1 clove garlic, chopped
8 slices cooked leg or shoulder of lamb
½ pound mushrooms
Italian peppers
Italian tomatoes
Canned artichoke hearts
Onion rings
Canned rolled anchovy fillets
Celery hearts
1 loaf Italian bread, sliced
½ pound Mozzarella cheese, sliced
Paprika

Combine oil, vinegar, oregano and garlic and blend. Add lamb and mushrooms. Cover and chill 4 hours. Drain lamb and mushrooms, reserving oil mixture. Arrange lamb, mushrooms, peppers, tomatoes, artichoke hearts, onion rings, anchovy fillets and celery hearts on serving platter. Brush artichoke hearts with oil. Chill. Arrange bread on baking sheet. Top with cheese and paprika. Broil 3 to 4 inches from heat, 3 to 4 minutes, or until cheese is melted and lightly browned. Serve with antipasto tray. Yield: 4 servings.

SPICED LAMB IN JELLY SAUCE

Saute sliced cooked lamb lightly in butter or margarine. Add grape or currant jelly and cook until jelly melts. Allow ½ cup jelly to 6 slices of meat.

Asparagus Is Tasty Whether Fresh or Canned

Perhaps because the fresh vegetable has such a short season, canned asparagus scored first among products of this type. Although one can now get frozen asparagus, many persons are still faithful to the canned products.

It is still more or less in the luxury class, as heavy stalks are chosen. Often thee are served with a hollandaise sauce. For a main dish, leftover cooked turkey or chicken combined with gravy or with a cream sauce — herb seasoned, of course — may be delicious, especially when served attractively. A novel suggestion is to remove crusts from slices of whole-wheat or white bread and to press each slice into corn-stick pans, according to directions given in the recipe.

Instead of the cream or gravy, condensed cream of chicken soup — thinned to a sauce consistency — may be heated and used. Mushroom may be substituted for the chicken soup. The addition of slivered pimientos will add color, and a certain amount of flavor.

By the way, both green and white asparagus may be purchased in canned form.

TURKEY AND ASPARAGUS IN TOAST LOGS

Toast Logs — Remove crusts from slices of white or whole-wheat bread. Flatten bread with rolling pin. Press each slice into 2 sections of corn-stick pan. Brush with butter or margarine and sprinkle with paprika. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees) about 15 to 20 minutes, until crisp and lightly browned.

YOUR FOOD PROBLEM

By Edith M. Barber

THIS MAIN DISH OF COLD LAMB antipasto has something for everyone. Marinated lamb slices and mushrooms are surrounded by onion rings and anchovy fillets, boiled potatoes, artichoke hearts, pimientos, celery, tomatoes. Paprika cheese toast is the delicious accompaniment.

Turkey and Asparagus

2 cups turkey or chicken gravy or 1 can condensed cream of chicken soup and 2-3 cup milk
½ teaspoon rosemary
3 cups chopped cooked turkey or chicken
¼ cup chopped parsley
Salt
Pepper
2 14½-ounce cans asparagus

Combine turkey or chicken gravy, rosemary, turkey or chicken, parsley, and salt and pepper to taste. Mix well and heat almost to boiling point, stirring frequently. Heat asparagus almost to boiling point and drain. Arrange asparagus on toast logs and top with chicken or turkey mixture. Yield: 6 servings.

QUICK MEAL

Oven-cooked broilers, baked sweet potatoes, Brussels sprouts, salad bowl, pears, coffee.

ORDER OF PREPARATION

Light oven; prepare broilers and bake, scrub potatoes and bake; prepare salad; prepare Brussels sprouts, cook and dress; make coffee.

Yellow Vegetables Are Inexpensive And Nutritious

It took many a long year for vegetables to come into their own — not only nutritionally, but also from the angle of appetite appeal. Until modern times they were used merely to stretch meat and help fill stomachs. Some were considered medicinal, at least in the spring after the scarcity of fresh foods during the winter.

Doubtless the discovery of the vitamin content turned attention to the nutritive qualities. Soon, experiment showed that methods of preparation were important if these qualities were not to be destroyed by cooking. The contributions of salad greens served in uncooked form were stressed.

Then came the emphasis upon green and yellow vegetables as contributors of vitamins. Of course, yellow turnips and carrots had been much used in stews. Winter squash, with its bright yellow coloring, was boiled or baked and served separately or featured as a pie filling.

Today one considers all these vegetables, especially in the fall and winter, as excellent accessories, to meat, and also appreciates sweet potatoes and yams which show their colors. One can depend upon all of the vegetables in the green and yellow class to furnish rather inexpensively with the nutritive ingredients which fresh green vegetables supply. These are usually more expensive during the cold weather.

DICED TURNIPS

Pare and dice turnips. Cook in generous amount of boiling salted water, 15 to 20 minutes, until tender. Drain and serve with quick hollandaise sauce.

QUICK HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

Prepare 1 cup thin cream sauce. After sauce is thickened, stir a little of the hot mixture into 2 slightly beaten egg yolks. Pour egg mixture into remaining hot sauce and cook over hot water until sauce is smooth and thick, stirring constantly. Add 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 more tablespoons butter, a dash of cayenne, and beat well.

Insurance Agents Get Convention Invitation

Seven members of the Charleroi agency staff of the Colonial Life Insurance Co. of America have received personal invitations from the company's president, Richard B. Evans, to attend the 60th annual convention at the Statler Hotel in New York City on Oct. 2, 3, 4 and 5.

Four of the staff members are from the Monessen-Belle Vernon district: Frank Buscanics, Walter Koziel, Stephen Hardoby and Nichilas Trembach.

Hardoby, whose debit is in Monessen, is one of the firm's leading agents and is a member of Colonial's Century Club, a company honor organization. He is nearing the National Quality Award, which is another prized insurance honor.

Trembach, an agent in Belle Vernon, is a member of the company's President Club, Builders Club, Quarter Million Dollar Club and Century Club. He is one of only 20 agents in the President's Club and he will deliver a speech at the New York convention.

Koziel, who lives in Monessen, is field manager of the Charleroi branch. He is listed as 12th among the firm's field managers. An active member of the National Association of Life Underwriters, he has just completed his second year on that organization's training council.

Buscanics, a Rostraver Twp. man, is manager of the Charleroi office and has been associated with the company since 1939. He is president of the Charleroi Kiwanis and is a member and past president of the Washington County Life Underwriters Association. He is active in sports and serves as stadium announcer at Charleroi, Bellmar and Rostraver High home football games.

FBI Records Report Crime On the Increase

WASHINGTON (UP)—FBI records showed today that crime boomed in the United States during the first six months of 1957.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said more major crimes were committed during the first half of the year than in any similar period on record.

Hoover said reports from 3,023 police departments across the country indicated there were 1,399,670 major crimes in the six-months period. That would be an average of about one crime every 11.2 seconds.

The FBI chief said this rate represented an 8.4 per cent increase over the rate for the first six months of last year.

Hoover said that while the bulk of the nation's crimes occurred in cities, rural crime is increasing more rapidly than city crime.

State Reports Net Decline in Polio

HARRISBURG (UP) — The state Health Department today reported a net decline in polio cases in Pennsylvania.

The department said there were 37 reported cases in the week ending Sept. 24, as compared to 39 the previous week. No new cases were listed during the week, while two cases previously reported were later discovered to be another disease.

Former Donora Man Promoted In Chicago Firm

A former Donora man has been appointed executive vice-president of Helmco., Chicago, a firm which produces restaurant and hotel supplies.

John J. Fendya, son of Mrs. Julia Fendya, of 83 Watkins Ave., Donora, was named to that post recently after serving as general manager of the firm's Cleveland Division for 20 years.

He is the brother of Mrs. John Ciepley, of 1236 Rostraver St., Monessen.

Novel Display

A novel window display at the Monessen Sport Shop signals the arrival of the autumn hunting season.

The exhibit includes a stuffed fox, grouse, squirrel and pheasant. The animals were loaned to proprietor Peter Roman by Fred Stockus, assistant manager of the Monessen office of the Mellon National Bank and Trust Co.

"We think this is one of our finest window displays" said Roman.

FEPC Agencies Are Announced

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Pennsylvania Fair Employment Practices Commission today prepared to establish local advisory agencies in Johnstown and Chester.

The commission last Tuesday approved plans for the agencies which are designed to help the FEPC prevent and eliminate discrimination in employment because of race, color, religion, ancestry, age or national origin. Each agency will be composed of from five to 15 persons chosen on the basis of leadership and interest in fair employment practices.

The FEPC said it chose Johnstown and Chester for the first agencies because those cities have initiated "community projects" for opening up fuller training and employment opportunities for minority workers.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Daniel Atkinson, who died three years ago today, September 26, 1954
When morning dawns, there is no trace
Of tears shed through the night;
Of aching hearts that know the pain
That fades in the morning's light.
Each day seems like a year to us,
Who miss your smile so dear.
The joy and laughter that you brought
Whenever you were here.
But God has called you home to rest
To the land beyond the sun
We pray one day we'll meet again
When our work on earth is done.
Sadly missed by Wife, Children and Grandchildren.

In loving memory of our dear father, Daniel Atkinson, who died three years ago today, September 26, 1954.
Days and nights are lonely,
Years have gone so fast,
The memories that linger
Bring back all the past.
We miss your every visit,
We miss you walk the path
Where you had your garden.
We hear you when you laugh,
We hear your voice raised in singing
The songs you loved to sing.
We hear your voice in talking
The things we loved to hear.
You made our hearts much lighter,
The home we all came to.
You kept us all together,
Father, dearest, we miss you.
Sadly missed by daughters, Phyllis, Isabelle and Elva.

In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Anna Sedore, who died six years ago, September 22, 1951.
A wonderful mother so loyal and true,
One in a million, that mother was you.
Just in your judgment, always right;
Honest and liberal, ever upright.
Loved by your friends and all whom you knew,
My wonderful mother, that mother was you.
Sadly missed by daughter, Ann.

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Susan Yuhasz, who died one year ago today, September 26, 1956.
Sad and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all;
A bitter grief; a shock severe
It was to part with one so dear.
We often sit and think of you,
And speak of how you died,
To think you could not say goodbye
Before you closed your eyes.
For all of us you did your best,
God grant you eternal rest.
Sadly missed by Children and Grandchildren

General Electric Medical Plan Is Scrutinized by Other Firms

(Fourth of Five Dispatches)

By JACK V. FOX

NEW YORK (UP) — The vast General Electric Co. started in the autumn of 1955 a new "comprehensive" medical insurance plan which is being scrutinized by other businesses as a possible model.

The GE plan, underwritten by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., differs mainly from older plans in that it covers most bills outside hospitals, has no set schedule of fees and provides major coverage up to $15,000.

The major criticism of the plan is that it is open to widespread misuse and overuse by employes and by doctors.

About 96 per cent of General Electric's 225,000 workers voted for the compreheasive plan after bargaining with the company through 93 unions. Taking in their families, approximately 500,000 persons are covered.

Here are some of its main provisions:

For hospital rooms, services, surgery, anesthetics and X-rays, the GE employe must pay the first $25 of cost himself. Benefits are 100 per cent of the next $225. After that, the policy pays 85 per cent of additional expenses and the patient 15 per cent — up to $7,500.

"Fifty-Dollar Deductible"

For doctor fees other than surgery, performed any place, for registered nurses, various treatments and for medicines requiring a prescription, the employe pays the first $50. The remainder of expense is borne 75 per cent by insurance and 25 per cent by the patient—up to $7,500.

Excluded from coverage is dental care, except for surgery, eye glasses, hearing aids and medical examinations or laboratory tests for "regular physical checkups."

It is noteworthy in the latter case that should an employe undergo a checkup showing that he is in need of treatment, the diagnostic charge usually is covered. Should the checkup show him sound and well, he must bear it himself.

General Electric also provided for a more limited medical insurance for employes reaching the age of 65 who had been with the company for 10 years or more.

The doctor is the judge of the type and amount of care required, but he is subject to the provision that the bill must be "reasonable, necessary and customary."

Didn't Work In Maine

One critic pointed out that a similar "comprehensive" type insurance was tried at an iron iron works in Maine. He said that within a short time the workers and their families were making so many and such unnecessary demands that the project had to be dropped in favor of insurance establishing set fee schedules for specific care.

One Metropolitan official cautioned that if voluntary health insurance becomes too costly, compulsory government insurance may not be far off. He quoted one physician as saying: "The time has come when we must wise up the doctor and wise up the patient, or else."

Life Expectancy Up

NEW YORK (UP)—Average life time of Americans has been increased by about 20 years since 1900, insurance company statisticians report. The life expectation of babies born now is 69½ years, according to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

Voluntary plans can be priced out of the market, he said, if patients and doctors spend more than is needed simply because there is insurance.

The human elements enter very much into this consideration.

One doctor pointed out that a person feeling sick might (A) shrug it off and go to work, (B) go to bed, (C) call his doctor, or (D) demand to be taken to a hospital. The response of persons with the same degree of illness will vary greatly among those four choices.

Waterless Cleansers Are Boon

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Personal cleanliness doesn't have to be forgotten by telephone linemen, construction men and others who must work outside away from sanitary facilities.

No longer do these field workers have to grab sandwiches from their lunch boxes with grimy dirty or oil-stained hands. Waterless hand cleaners now permit a good cleanup job right at the work site.

These waterless cleaners remove dirt and oil as well as soap and water. In some cases they do a job that's even more effecuve.

They are available in plastic squeeze tubes and are rubbed into the hands until they become liquefied. They are then immediately wiped off with a cloth, towel or absorbent paper.

It's just about the same as washing your hands at home.

While these cleaners are perfectly all right for most persons, some few, of course, will show allergic reactions to the compounds.

In most cases, though, the waterless cleaners actually will help prevent skin allergies from poison ivy, poison oak and irritating bouls and oils.

Polyhydric phenols are the active ingredients in these plant poisons. Using mild oxidizing agents, such as are found in the waterless cleaners, helps render such ingredients ineffective.

Immediate action, of course, is quite necessary to wash away all of the poisonous substances.

This is possible only if you have something with which you can clean your hands. If no water is available, there's not much you can do, unless you have something like waterless cleaners along with you.

More and more utilities, and other firms which send men out into the fields, are adding waterless cleaners as part of the truck crew's equipment.

From the standpoint of health and safety, it seems like a pretty good idea to me.

A. G.: There has been a persistent swelling of my child's right foot since birth, mainly about the ankle. What could cause this?

Answer: The cause of this condition possibly is a lymph vessel tumor in that area. This is not a serious condition. However, you should consult your physician.

TV Puppets to Help In Teaching of Math

An unusual new television program created to make mathematics exciting and entertaining for American youngsters, will make its debut on KDKA-TV early in November.

The Westinghouse Broadcasting Company, which owns and operates five television stations in major cities, has combined math and marionettes in producing an educational film series entitled "Adventures in Number and Space," dedicated to the novel proposition that television can inspire children to look, learn and like mathematics.

The series, conceived by WBC and prepared with the cooperation of the department of mathematics, The Teachers College and Columbia University, stars Bill Baird and his Marionettes, a company of puppeteers.

Professor Howard F. Fehr, head of the mathematics department of Teachers College and president of the American Council to Teachers of Mathematics, served as consultant for the program and collaborated on the scripts with Baird.

Though basically aimed at a junior high school level, "Adventures in Number and Space" is expected to appeal to adults as well. It goes far beyond the traditional third "R" and deals not only with 'Rithmetic but also with more advanced subjects, including algebra, trigonometry and geometry.

Announcing this project at a press conference in New York City, Donald H. McGannon, president of the Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. said that, "Adventures in Number and Space" would be seen on the Westinghouse stations in Pittsburgh, Boston, Cleveland, Baltimore and San Francisco starting the week of Nov. 19.

The nine half-hour films will also be made available free to educational television stations and will be distributed later for classroom use throughout the nation.

"Adventures in Number and Space" has been planned as a part of WBC's continuing campaign on all of its five television and six radio stations to help the nation produce more scientists, mathematicians and engineers.

McGannon went on to say, "If America is to have as many scientists in the future as our needs require, then we have to start now and reach the children first, for without a solid foundation in mathematics they cannot even begin to take up careers in science."

"This series," said McGannon, "also means the continuation of our organization's activities in developing new ways of using television as an instrument for enlightenment and information, particularly for children. It is a privilege for us to be able to document these programs with the cooperation of the mathematics department of The Teachers College and to have the active assistance and counsel of a great teacher and mathematician, Dr. Howard Fehr, in the preparation of this series."

In speaking of the series, Dr. Fehr said, "Literally, our culture is becoming a mathematical one, and more mathematics is being invented to help us solve our life problems. However, we are not making sufficient progress in attaining more students to study mathematics. A bottle neck seems to develop at the junior high school level."

"The greatest factor is that of motivation," continued Dr. Fehr, "Children do not tend to continue to study a subject that they do not like, in which they do not succeed, and for which they can see no real use Routine teaching and drill in arithmetic does not help matters. What is needed is a dynamic approach that shows mathematics as an exciting, creative activity in thinking that has wonderful application to all careers in life."

Dr. Fehr went on to say, "As well as being an enjoyable pursuit in itself, "Adventures in Number and Space" is a splendid example of meeting this need."

In Hollywood—

Gardner Has Two TV Shows

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Erle Stanley Gardner plunges into television this month with two shows—"Perry Mason" (CBS) and "The Court of Last Resort" (NBC) — both of which he had refused to have televised in the past.

Gardner held out for the right financial arrangements and the exact presentations he had in mind.

"They were after me seven years for the 'Mason' series and ten years for 'The Court.' I wouldn't let them touch either of 'em until I felt that they'd do accurate, truthful jobs."

Gardner sipped a cocktail in the Brown Derby and turned up the volume on his hearing aid before embarking on an explanation of his "Court."

Seek Only Facts

"This isn't a do-gooder outfit," the 70-year-old writer rasped. "We are simply a group of men trying to establish facts in the interest of justice. It's just as important to us that every guilty man is punished as it is that innocent men should go free.

"We're not trying to prove anything except that the layman has abdicated his responsibility of the administration of justice to lawyers, judges and police departments."

Why has the successful mystery writer (56 Perry Mason books alone) dedicated himself to acting as a watchdog for justice?

"That's hard to answer," he said, adjusting his trifocal spectacles.

"I always thought I'd like to have a gravestone reading: 'Here lies Erle Stanley Gardner—a guy who could sure pick women.' But now I'm not so sure.

Makes Enemies

"When the time comes to balance the books, I'd like to feel we on the 'Court' had taken part in some worthwhile life work. Something more important than writing mystery stories."

In his attempts to get the facts Gardner has made scores of powerful enemies — especially among attorneys general and district attorneys.

"I don't mean to say Americans aren't getting a fair shake in the courts," he said. "Our justice is the best in the world today. You can be sure the odds are overwhelmingly in favor of a guilty man going free as compared to innocent men being jailed.

"Our real problem is that we abide by laws passed in 1880. They've got to be modernized.

"Perhaps more people will understand the work of The Court of Last Resort when they see it on TV—and in that way generate renewed interest in our entire criminal law and judicial systems.

Get Film Library

With the recent acquisition of the Warner Bros. film library, KDKA-TV can now call upon five major Hollywood studios to satisfy the huge appetite of its viewers. KDKA-TV now controls the 20th Century Fox, RKC, Republic, United Artists and Warner Bros.

7,500 DAILY SUBSCRIBERS NOW — Mrs. J. J. Cunningham of Eldora became The Daily Independent's 7,500th subscriber recently. She was delivered her first paper by newsboy John Sandrey Jr., while The Daily's circulation manager Lewis Jones looked on.

Daily Independent's 7,500th Subscriber Is Eldora Family

Subscriber No. 7,500 joined the growing family of Daily Independent readers recently, marking another new high in the distribution of the paper.

Mrs. J. J. Cunningham, of Eldora in Carroll Township, Washington County, ordered the paper for her family from the "little merchant" carrier who serves her neighborhood, John Sandrey Jr.

The Cunninghams are long-time residents of the area, Mr. Cunningham having come here from Wilkes Barre some 20 years ago. He is a veteran employe of the U. S. Steel Corp. in Donora.

John, their carrier, is 15 years of age, a tenth grade student at Donora High School where he is a member of the band. He lives in Eldora, too, and is a member of Carroll Township Scout Troop 136.

Official Welcome

John began his paper route Sept. 16 when daily distribution of The Independent was started in the Eldora-Fisher Heights section of the township.

Circulation Manager Lewis Jones, who sees that The Independent gets into the 7,500 living rooms each evening, called on Mrs. Smith to extend an official welcome.

Although the 7,500 figure is a new milestone, the paid circulation of The Independent has climbed steadily in recent times, up some 50 per cent in the last eight years.

Studies have shown that a single copy of a newspaper is read on the average by four persons. This means that The Independent is now read by approximately 30,000 people in the Valley area each evening.

The Independent's circulation is audited by the Audit Bureau of Circulations, which publishes its reports at three-month intervals. The latest ABC report, for the period ended June 30, showed that the daily average paid circulation for that period was 7,374 copies.

With new subscribers being added daily throughout the area, the circulation has now passed the 7,500 mark.

Iowa Football Players Caught by Flu Bug

By UNITD PRESS

At least 16 University of Iowa football players were under "the weather" today with the flu in the latest outbreak of the disease sweeping the nation.

The Hawkeye gridders were among 130 students reported to have been stricken with the flu on the Iowa campus during the past three days. The players were hit Wednesday only three days before Iowa's football opener against Utah State.

In Ohio, state Health Director Dr. Ralph E. Dwork termed a flu siege in the Toledo area as explosive and epidemic." About 50 per cent of the pupils in three Toledo area schools were reported suffering from a respiratory illness believed to be Asian flu.

The disease has reached epidemic proportions so far in two states, Arizona and Utah, and at least 16 deaths have been blamed directly or indirectly on the flu.

Mississippi, one of the hardest hit states, has reported an estimated 99,840 cases of Asian flu alone.

However, a possible new weapon to stem the spread of the disease, which invaded the United States about three months ago after sweeping the Orient, was announced today in New York.

An iodine preparation known as betadine was reported to have the power to kill the Asian flu virus within 15 seconds upon contact in the throat and respiratory system. It can be used as a throat spray or wash when symptoms first appear.

S&H Clerk Is Missing; So Is $1,196 in Cash

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A stockroom clerk, employed by an S&H green stamp store failed to return Wednesday after being given $1,196 in cash and $10,131 in checks to deposit in a bank.

Store officials notified police after Thomas E. Buckley, 30, had not returned two hours after receiving the money.

Police immediately identified Buckley as a known trouble maker who was sentenced to the Allegheny County Workhouse in 1956 for burglary. They said he has a long criminal record.

Buckley, who gave a Pittsburgh address, when applying for the clerk's job, is a native of Louisiana, police said.

S&H authorities said they did not know of his past record when they hired him.

In addition to the company funds, Buckley was given $15 to pay a bill and a check for $41 to be cashed for employes.

Inflation in Crime

DETROIT (UP) — The cost of crime goes up Friday when misdeeds involving amounts up to $100 will be only misdemeanors. The figure used to be $50.

Firemen Hurt Battling Fire At Press Plant

KOKOMO, Ind. (UP)—Fifteen firemen were injured Wednesday night in battling a general alarm fire that swept the Cuneo Press plant here, printer of several national magazines.

None of the firemen was hurt seriously, but two were hospitalized.

Fire Chief Francis Mannion estimated damage at one million dollars.

However, John F. Cuneo, of Libertyville, Ill., president of the firm, said he believed damage "was a long way from that" estimate.

The plant prints Good Housekeeping, Boys Life, American Home and other magazines for Midwest distribution. Cuneo said production of the magazines would not be delayed, since the work would be shifted largely to the company's plant in Philadelphia. The firm has other plants in the East, Midwest and West Coast.
